Mayor Nathan Hale Thompson, of Chicago, arrives in town to try to induce President Coolidge to put a stop to the pernicious British propaganda which flooded the Mississippi Valley last summer.

Some opponent of the proposed power dam at Great Falls ought to suggest the dire possibility of its "letting go" some day and giving Washington another taste of Johnstown.

One gathers from Representative Rainey's complaint that the presence of the estate tax witnesses before the committee is almost as irregular as the meeting of Ways and Means in advance of the assembling of a Congress to appoint it.

The House flood committee, which doesn't exist, opens hearings and by the time Congress gets here hopes to have a bill framed placing the Federal control of rain in the hands of Secretary Hoover.

We gather that Mayor Thompson's scheme for preventing floods is to have all reference to "em deleted from the school text books.

The New England floods are described as the worst the white man has ever seen in that section since he first fell on his knees and then fell on the aborigines. The Indians didn't denude the mountains of their forests. Plant a tree and save the leaves!

Four-hundred-pound Chicago gentlemen, arraigned for passing a near check, pleads that he's too fat to be honest, and gets away with it before a judge who doesn't know his Shakespeare. As the well-fed Brutus explained to the lean and hungry one:

RULE WITH BAYONET IN WATERBURY; IDLE MEN SET TO WORK

Food Only by Ticket; All Children Sent Away;
Serum Mandatory.

COMBATting HUNGER HARDEST FLOOD TASK

Roads Must Be Repaired at Once to Move Supplies;
Farmers Suffer.

Waterbury, Vt., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—This village went under strict military rule today and stringent regulations were laid down. A detachment of the third Cavalry took complete charge of food relief and repairs.

They forbade eating in homes, making eating in the church compulsory. They also stopped the issuance of food to any but holders of official meal tickets.

They intimated that there had been some attempts at looting, and bayonets appeared on the rifles of the street patrols. They rounded up a score of idle men and put them to enforced labor on the streets.

Another warning was issued that failure to submit to inoculation for typhoid would result in four weeks incarceration. Tonight 2,000 of the 3,000 inhabitants had been inoculated.

Plans proceeded to take all children out of town as quickly as possible in view of the possibility of pestilence.

Steel cables were stretched across both Little River and the Winoski and food and clothing were sent across to the needy in the outlying districts.

Food Rushed Through.

Boston, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Many agencies lending a helping hand in flood-damaged New England, with Vermont towns the chief objective, have turned from rescue to relief. Efforts to feed and clothe the sufferers bore increasing fruit today as those on the outside seeking to help the victims fought and won over many obstacles.

Trucks supplemented the faster airplanes of slight carrying capacity which have played a lone hand in the first succor, flying with medicine and food to dozens of towns struck by the flood.

There are no roads in many places for the trucks to use, but they pushed on anyway and relieved several acute situations where food was at a minimum.

Bolton, one of Vermont's chief sufferers, however, remained cut off and faced a problem of going hungry unless a way is found to furnish relief.

Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, commanding the First Corps Area, who completed a survey from the air of the situation in northern Vermont, said tonight that the problem has become one of administration.

He called the flood disaster the most serious that he has come to the affected section and he paid high tribute to the spirit of the people. With an absence

12 WOUNDED IN RIOT AT RED CONSULATE

White Russians in Shanghai
Attack Soviet Group at Reception.

Shanghai, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Celebration here of the tenth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution of 1917 was marked by an attack upon the Soviet Consulate by "white" Russians, with the resultant death of at least one person and the wounding of eleven others.

The riot began during a reception in the consular building in honor of the anniversary. A group of White Russians, representing the classes that were expelled after the Bolsheviks gained control, gathered about the building. As the crowd grew and began surging toward the doors of the building, some of its members hurling bricks at windows and attempting to break in the barred door, shots were fired from inside.

When the first pistol shots failed to disperse the crowd, the aim was lowered and individuals began to fall. Police said tonight that one man was killed and one woman and ten men were wounded.

A large number of tourists and society folk gathered in the Astor House, which is a rendezvous for fashionable Europeans, were alarmed by the firing. Some of the bullets glanced from the sidewalk and hit the front of the hotel, but none of the guests were injured.

Most of the windows on the first and second floors of the consulate had been shattered by bricks before the inmates of the building began shooting.

Earthquake Shakes San Diego and Ships

San Diego, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—San Diego and vicinity experienced a slight earthquake last night. It was felt aboard the U. S. S. Rigel and other ships in the battle fleet at Las Mesa, 7 miles east.

A seismograph, at the Theological University, recorded a one millimeter movement from north to south of about five seconds duration. No damage was reported.

Legion Here Decorates Grave of First to Fall

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—A storm of protest has descended on the city of Evansville because of the publicity given the fact that the grave of James Bethel Gresham, first A. E. F. soldier to be killed in the World War, was unattended and weed-grown on November 3, the tenth anniversary of his death.

One of the scores of telegrams that poured into the mayor's office from various sections of the country came from a Washington, D. C., American Legion Post. The telegram asked that a wreath be placed on the grave and the bill sent to the Legion post. Mayor Males returned a message, saying, "I'll pay for it myself." This he did.

Other wreaths were placed anonymously on the grave today. The Service Star Legion will decorate the tomb Armistice Day. Gresham's mother had died in the past year.

2 MORE MEXICAN REBEL CHIEFS TAKEN; EXECUTED

Generals Reyes and Garcia
Face Firing Squads in Vera Cruz Hills.

DR. O'FARRELL YIELDS

Mexico City, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Federal troops are rapidly cleaning up the remnants of the Gomez revolutionists in the mountains of Vera Cruz. Two more, Gen. Fernando Reyes, and Gen. Silviano Garcia, it was officially announced tonight, have been captured and executed. Including Gomez himself and the four executed about the same time, this brings the total to seven Gomez leaders who have faced the firing squad since Saturday.

Reyes was a long-time revolutionary, who once fought with Villa. He had not been attached to the federal army in recent years, but joined the Gomez-Serrano movement. Garcia, for ten years, has been the leader of outlaw bands in the hills of Vera Cruz. Reyes and Garcia were captured near where Gomez was taken.

Gen. Almeida, and Medina are being closely pursued by scouting parties under the federal general, Escobar, whose field operations have been directly responsible for the sweeping defeat of the revolutionary movement.

With the exception of Almeida and Medina no rebels remain in the Vera Cruz region where Gomez carried on his activities. The federal government considers that the only task yet left to be accomplished is the scattering or killing off of various groups of regular bandits.

Official announcement also was made that Dr. Jimenez O'Farrell, a Mexico City physician who was in the field with Gomez, had voluntarily surrendered. Prior to the execution of Gen. Gomez, the rebel leader pleaded in a letter for clemency in behalf of O'Farrell, whom he said he had investigated into the movement, merely as a physician and surgeon, declaring that he was innocent of any revolutionary conspiracy.

Dr. O'Farrell is being brought to Mexico City "to justify his conduct to the president of the republic."

Dog Brings Rescue To Man in Quicksand

Special to The Washington Post.
New York, Nov. 7.—A man about 70 years old, rescued from quicksand today which he had sunk to his neck near Barren Island, in Jamaica Bay, last night, today was still listed at Kings County Hospital as John Doe. Brought to the hospital unconscious, he remained in a coma.

A dog's persistent howls led to his rescue. Christopher Bauer, a fisherman, heard the dog, got into a boat and rowed until he found the animal. The dog was standing by the head of his master, who apparently had been trapped in a quicksand by rising waters. The dog disappeared when an ambulance arrived.

30 Years for Cashier For Falsifying Books

St. Clairsville, Ohio, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—William Thomas, former cashier of the Bridgeport Banking Co., was sentenced to from 2 to 30 years in the Ohio Penitentiary today on a charge of falsifying records to the State banking department. His plea for a new trial was overruled.

Thomas was arrested April 22, the day after a shortage of $306,000 was discovered in the bank.

On the stand at his trial, Thomas admitted falsifying the records, stating that he did it to protect the bank's credit. He said the shortages were caused by overdrafts and bad notes.

Murder Charged to Widow On Story of 7-Year-Old Son

Coroner's Jury Holds Mrs. Sarah M. Hartley in Husband's Death Despite Testimony of 11-year-old Daughter—Neighbors Take Stand.

From the lips of her 7-year-old son, Robert, last night came the words which caused a coroner's jury, sitting at Hyattsville, to charge Mrs. Sara Marie Hartley, 27 years old, with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, Robert A. Hartley.

The child, the only eyewitness to the tragedy which broke up the family, told a clear story, unclouded by the realization of what it might mean to his mother. The tale, as related by him, apparently outweighed in the minds of the jury the testimony of 11-year-old Doris Hartley, who testified strongly in defense of her parent.

Both Robert and Doris told their stories with unclouded eyes and without a tremor. Only the wide variance in the tales of what happened in the little Bladensburg home last Thursday showed the strids of love of a son for his father, and of a daughter for her mother.

FEDERAL ESPIONAGE OF JURY IN OIL TRIAL CHARGED BY BURNS

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR CALLS STATEMENT LIE

Kidwell Seeks Contempt Rule;
Eight Witnesses Questioned
by the Grand Jury.

(Associated Press.)
Backers were started yesterday from two different sources by those who have come under grilling in the Government investigation of charges of jury tampering in the Fall-Schulz oil conspiracy trial.

William J. Burns, founder of the detective agency bearing his name, gave life to the first with a charge that the only agent who made contact with any member of the now dissolved jury was not a Burns man, but an employee of the Federal Government itself. That employee promptly gave the "lie" direct to that accusation.

Edward J. Kidwell, celebrated juror No. 11, got back into the limelight by filing a petition with Justice Siddons asking for a contempt rule against the street car conductor and newspaper reporter who said he talked freely about the case during the trial and expressed the hope of getting an automobile a block long. Action on the petition was deferred.

Eight Witnesses Questioned.

While these events were occurring on the outside, the grand jury inquiring into formal charges of attempts to influence the jury laid against Harry F. Sinclair and his confidential agent, Henry Mason Day, drove ahead steadily with its work, examining eight witnesses and preparing to continue its inquiry for many more days.

Burns, chief under Harry M. Daugherty of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, was the first of the day's witnesses. He came out of the grand jury room bubbling over with conversation, which he carried on with newspaper correspondents for nearly an hour.

With six of the Burns men who shadowed the jury as a back field audience, the internationally known detective lauded the virtues of his own men and startled his listeners with a demand to know why the district attorney has not made public a "complaint and affidavit" filed by his agents with Justice Siddons last Friday, making charges against a Government man.

"The only person who has made contact with one of the jurors was a Government employee and a newspaper reporter," he declared, in a high-pitched voice that must have carried to the grand jurors in a nearby room.

Affidavits Made Public.

There was a scattering of the news men, some heading for District Attorney Gordon's office and others for the chambers of Justice Siddons. The justice, who was holding court, said he had received no such "complaint and affidavit."

Referee Holds Florence Clemen- denin Was Victim of Nobleman's Fraud.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Annulment of the marriage of Mrs. Florence Cledenin Tornow to Baron George Tornow, refugee Russian nobleman, was recommended today by Clifford Couch, referee appointed to hear testimony in the suit.

Mrs. Tornow is the daughter of Joseph Cledenin, minister and mining engineer of New York.

The referee upheld the plaintiff's contention that her consent to the marriage had been obtained by fraud and found that Tornow, entirely without funds, is in this country illegally, having entered in 1925 on a visitor's passport which never was made permanent.

The wedding took place in December, 1926, in New York. Miss Cledenin was reported to have escaped from virtual imprisonment at the family mansion in Ardeley, N. Y., for the ceremony, but to have returned a few hours later after her father had invaded the bridal suite at the Waldorf and interrupted the wedding breakfast to take the bride home.

Gasps "Not Guilty" And Dies Before Judge

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—In a faltering voice, Frank Skala, 68, gasped out a plea of "not guilty," and dropped dead before the judge's bench when he appeared in court today.

"Write in the record that he was not guilty," said Judge Harry Hamilton, as they bore the body away. Skala was charged with disorderly conduct. Heart disease caused his death.

Pola Negri Ordered To Hospital by Doctor

MISS ROGERS IS BRIDE AT A HASTY WEDDING

MARRIED TO ARGENTINIAN

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 7.—Millicent Rogers Salm, Standard Oil heiress, and Arturo Peralta Ramos, handsome but poor young Argentine blue blood, were hurriedly married at 6 o'clock this afternoon at Southampton, Long Island.

It seems the fates decree that Millicent must wed in a rush. Her marriage to Count Ludvig Salm Von Hoogstraeten was a hurried one. Her repentance was not so leisurely.

Millicent's plans for a wedding tomorrow, to be attended by many of her own and her family's social register friends, were cast aside early today when it was learned that her grandfather, George Millard Benjamin, father of Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, was not expected to live through the night.

It was like Millicent successfully to evade newspaper men and photographers. The Rev. Joseph Kelly had just finished the quiet ceremony in the rectory of the Church of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary when reporters and cameramen rushed up. Millicent and her second husband

DAWES SHOWS GAIN AS CHOICE OF G.O.P. TO MAKE 1928 RACE

Vice President Profits by Clashes Between Other Aspirants.

HAILS FROM SECTION DEMANDING CANDIDATE

With Smith as Democratic Nominee, West Held Vital to Republicans.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Increasing activity in the Lowden and Hoover camps and an outcropping of candidacies came in the wake of the Coolidge-Peas Incident, but in the opinion of some Republican leaders, the man who has profited most is Vice President Dawes. Sitting tight, as the saying goes, behind the Lowden campaign, he is becoming the subject of considerable discussion—discussion by those who are important—now that the President is generally taken as being definitely out of the race.

There is a growing feeling among the leaders that not only will the Middle West continue to demand some form of farm relief at the coming session of Congress, but that it must be treated kindly when they select their presidential candidate next June. That this section of the country is feeling its oats is evidenced by the flock of open and but slightly concealed candidacies coming from it.

There are Senators Curtis, of Kansas, and Willis, of Ohio, with avowed candidacies; Lowden, with an aggressive campaign; and Speaker Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, and Senator Borah, of Idaho, believed at least to be keeping their ears close to the ground. Their hopes are based on the general belief that the Middle West must be dealt with in 1928 as perhaps it has not been the wont of the party to deal with it in recent years.

Smith Seen As Threat.

And this belief does not rest altogether on the fact that the Middle West has proved it is capable of raising a great hullabaloo. It has for its basis also the fact that with Smith as the Democratic nominee, there will be considerable uncertainty about the East. The specter of his carrying New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Maryland and lesser important Eastern States means that those who shape the Republican party's destinies can not trifle with the West. They can not take a chance on losing a single Western State.

The situation in New York is causing them uneasiness even though Smith be not the Democratic nominee. So little is the Republican cause thought of there, in fact, that although Ogden L. Mills, under-secretary of the Treasury, was generally supposed to have had an

Lindbergh Suffers From Cold in Flight

Mount Clemens, Mich., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying a single-seater Army pursuit plane, arrived at Selfridge Field at 3:30 p. m. today, accompanied by Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier, commandant, in another single-seater. Lieut. Irvin Woodring and Hoyt Prindle were escorts.

The squadron had left Buffalo, N. Y., at 2:05 p. m. Flying almost wing to wing, they circled the field and came down together. The fliers suffered from the cold. Col. Lindbergh, his teeth chattering, was hurried off to Maj. Lanphier's quarters to warm up.

ELECTION FOR GOVERNOR IN TWO STATES TODAY

Three House Vacancies to Be Filled; Philadelphia and Detroit Pick Mayors.

MANY MINOR CONTESTS

(Associated Press.)
Today's off-year elections call for showdowns at the polls in less than a score of States, with interest centered chiefly in State and local issues.

No United States senators will be chosen, although three vacancies in the House of Representatives are to be filled.

Two States—Kentucky and Mississippi—will elect governors. In two others—New York and New Mexico—voters will pass on constitutional amendments, and by referendum in Ohio and New Jersey on enactments of the legislature.

New legislatures will be selected in New Jersey, Virginia and Kentucky. In less than a dozen States, there will be elections of county, municipal and other local officials. Among the cities having bitterly contested majority fights are Philadelphia, Detroit, San Francisco and Louisville.

The vacancies in the House of Representatives were caused by the deaths of Representative Magee of the Thirty-fifth New York District and Stephens of the Second Ohio, and by the resignation of Representative Hazlett of the First Pennsylvania, all Republicans.

The Republican candidate for Congress in the First Pennsylvania is James M. Beck, former Solicitor General of the United States. He has the support of Senator-elect Vard, whose leadership also is challenged in the Philadelphia majority contest.

As the Democratic nominee for Governor of Mississippi, Theo G. Bilbo is assured of election at the voting today in the usual formality in that State of ratifying the Democratic primary selections.

In Kentucky, however, J. C. W. Beckham, twice governor and once United States senator, as the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, has a fight on his

Condemnation Bill Before Committee

Various points in a bill proposed by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission affecting condemnation of real estate were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the subcommittee on condemnation of the law and legislation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

No action was taken on the bill, and further consideration will be given at a meeting, which is to be called for the latter part of next week. John E. Small, chairman of the subcommittee, announced.

Panama Election Intervention Doubted

(Associated Press.) The reported desire of former President Porras of Panama for American supervision of the forthcoming Panama presidential elections failed to arouse interest at the State Department yesterday.

It was said authoritatively that the Washington Government not only did not expect that any request for such supervision would be received from the Panamanian government but that it did not believe conditions would warrant intervention.

H.H. Bond Takes Oath For Treasury Post

(Associated Press.) Henry H. Bond was yesterday sworn in as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, succeeding Charles A. Dewey, who resigned to become financial adviser to the Polish government.

Mr. Bond will take over the supervision of the Internal Revenue Bureau. Undersecretary Mills will take over supervision of the Federal Farm Loan Board, the public debt, farm loans and the treasury's office.

CONTROL OF FLOODS URGED ON CONGRESS AT CAPITOL HEARING

Conditions Are Too Great for Any States to Remedy Alone, Gov. Small Holds.

MAYOR THOMPSON SAYS NATION MUST BE ROUSED

Proposal Made That Prohibition Funds Be Utilized to Repair Damage.

(Associated Press.) The machinery of Congress to devise means of controlling floods, particularly in the Mississippi Valley, was set in motion yesterday with the opening of hearings by the House flood-control committee.

Before approximately 1,000 persons, representing the Chicago flood conference, Chairman Reid, of Illinois, reviewed the various phases of the problem, emphasizing that its solution was a national question of primary importance.

Mayor Thompson of Chicago, the first witness, described the hardships of flood victims which November 6, 1927, during the floods while on a boat trip to New Orleans. He said the City of Chicago realized the necessity of an immediate solution of the problem.

Mayor O'Keefe of New Orleans said Gov. Small of Illinois and Sorlie of North Dakota also stressed the necessity of action by the National Government.

For Valley-Wide Plan.

Representative Reid declared that the "problem of flood control will not be solved by following any single theory."

ory or form of defensive works," and added:

"I believe that a combination of the best and most practical elements of the various plans that have been suggested will be found worthy of incorporation in a valley-wide national plan."

The committee chairman expressed the view that the plan should include "strategic levees, wider apais in places, and standardization on the main river and its principal tributaries, spillways, outlets, by-passes and overflow reservoirs."

A suggestion that money for flood control be obtained by using appropriations for prohibition enforcement was suggested by Representative J. C. Small, president of the Cook County, Illinois, board.

"If Congress," he said, "will appropriate as much to stop the flow of water in the Mississippi Valley as it has already appropriated to stop the flow of wine and beer in other parts of the United States, in five years the Mississippi Valley will be adequately protected."

A plea for flood control to protect women and children from suffering was made by Mrs. Bertha Baur, of Chicago. "We want more action and less talk," she said.

Mayor Thompson Talks.

Mayor Thompson occupied the witness chair only a short time. He stressed the need of arousing the Nation to the need of controlling floods, diverting from that subject only to describe the value of steamship navigation from Chicago to New Orleans.

The two governors, Small, of Illinois, and Sorlie, of North Dakota, said that their States, although out of the flood region, were cognizant of the effects of last spring's disaster.

"The flood conditions are too great for any States to remedy alone," said Gov. Small.

"It is not a sectional problem and it is not a political problem, but it is a national problem—one of national importance—flood control—one of national welfare."

Various members of the committee conferred in the view, among them, Representatives Kopp, of Iowa; Freer, of Wisconsin, and Sears, of Nebraska. Republicans, who said they favored the enactment by Congress of an adequate plan of control.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, of Illinois, declared that the American Legion, whom he represented at the hearing, supported flood control by the Federal Government. He read a resolution adopted at the legion's Paris convention.

Thompson Called Sincere In Urging Flood Control

The importance of the Thompson mission to the Capital to urge flood control was stressed last night by William D. McJunkin, president of the McJunkin Advertising Co. and vice president of the National Outdoor Advertising Bureau, who came here on the train with the Thompson party. He is one of Mayor Thompson's closest friends and supporters. McJunkin said:

"One thing that I want to emphasize is the profound sincerity of William Hale Thompson in his advocacy of the principles he stands for. His political success has come from the conviction of the people of Chicago that he will not compromise for political expediency any principle that he espouses. In the matter of flood control he is actuated by the most unselfish motives."

"It is impossible for the flood sufferers, for the people of the States where the lives of the river destroyed many lives and created property losses in the hundreds of millions of dollars, to cope with the situation, it is as the mayor believes, a matter for Congress to handle alone."

To get coordinated action and avoid the inefficient methods of the people of Chicago, it is absolutely imperative that Uncle Sam assume the financial burden of the economic and humane undertaking.

"I am familiar with the sentiment of the Mississippi Valley, and can say without mental reservation that this sentiment is entirely correct. It is the backbone of the Nation. The region that lies between the Alleghenies and the Rockies furnishes the Nation 66 per cent of the acre of the United States, 64 per cent of the population, 70 per cent of all farm crops; 56 per cent of all wages, 58 per cent of all manufactured products; 60 per cent of the national wealth, 46 per cent of the savings deposits, 80 per cent of the wheat, 93 per cent of the corn, 84 per cent of the cotton, 96 per cent of the oil, 93 per cent of the iron ore, 70 per cent of the petroleum, 80 per cent of the cattle, 63 per cent of the sheep, 91 per cent of the swine, and 73 per cent of the railway mileage."

"The disaster that visited the Mississippi Valley affected every citizen of the Nation, and it is preventable. No other such calamity of this sort that Mayor Thompson is giving so generously of his time, labor and money."

"This is a crisis for flood control has the sublime character of a national issue, affecting each and all of us. There is no political being that is not a part of this crisis. It is not a local issue. The greatest assurance that the people of the Mississippi Valley have that this relief will be given them is that Big Bill Thompson is at the helm. The Mississippi River with its tributaries, 59 of which rank as navigable streams, drains 32 States."

"With regard to the commitment of the Chicago mayor to the proposition of America, it is a matter of record that this is a red-blooded and patriotic stand, and is based on the declaration of George Washington when he said: 'I shall be true to the principles of the time for this Nation to maintain friendly relations with all European nations, but entangling alliances with none.' And it is of interest to know that this sentiment is further exemplified and reaffirmed by what Thomas Jefferson, the 'father of Democracy,' said: 'Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none.'"

"Mayor Thompson is a Revolutionary and his forebears were prominent in rendering distinguished service not only during the Revolutionary War but during the Civil War. He is conscious of his principles, and he is sold on their fundamental truth. He knows no such word as 'fail' in his vocabulary, and counts no cost in pushing his objectives to a successful issue."

Work Loses Appeal In Florida Land Suit

The second attempt of Hubert Work, secretary of the Interior, and William Spry, commissioner of the general land office, to avoid issuing a patent to Henry T. Read of South Dakota, for 160 acres of now very valuable land near Miami, Fla., failed yesterday when the Court of Appeals directed that the patent issue.

In 1920 Read, through his attorney, laid a forest lie selection scrip, valued at $2,000 upon the Florida land. The land is now said to be worth several million dollars. Other claimants appeared and the Department of the Interior hesitated about issuing a patent to Read. The Appellate Court stated that other claims could be settled in the Florida courts after Read had obtained his patent.

Women's Auxiliary To Entertain G. A. R.

Plans for entertaining veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic at dinner at Harvey's Restaurant, Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, on the evening of Veteran's Day, November 17, were made last night's meeting of Ellen Spencer Mussey Tent, Women's Auxiliary of the G. A. R. held at the organizations headquarters, 1412 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Lincoln Post, G. A. R., is cooperating with the auxiliary order in making arrangements.

At initiation ceremonies held last night, Mrs. Jennie White and Mrs. Ida Gayle were admitted to the order in the presence of about 65 members. The organization will hold its nominating officers at a meeting to be held November 21 at its headquarters, Mrs. Kathryn C. Rahn, president, yesterday said that a report circulated to the effect that the order contemplated changing location of its headquarters, was erroneous.

MAYOR THOMPSON BREAKFASTS WITH PRESIDENT TODAY

15 Others From Chicago Will Be Guests of Coolidge at Morning Meal.

2,000 FOLLOWERS COME IN TEN SPECIAL CARS

Singing Policemen, Along, Chant "America First" at Hotel; Here on Flood.

Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago and fifteen of his political cohorts will have breakfast with President Coolidge at the White House this morning. The table talk probably will center on flood-control legislation for the Mississippi Valley.

The mayor arrived in Washington yesterday morning, accompanied by 2,000 of his followers, an accordion player, a banjo player and eight singing policemen.

As many of the party as could took rooms in the Mayflower Hotel, about a stone's throw from the British Embassy, where the diplomatic representatives of Thompson's great political foe, King George V.

Hot Anti-British.

But this visit to Washington has nothing to do with his war on pro-British sentiment in Chicago, the Mayor said, and he explained that he came here to get the Federal Government to do something about preventing a repetition of the disastrous Mississippi flood. Chicago is not exactly in the flood area, but it is near enough to it to suffer the disastrous economic consequences of a flood.

In answer to a question about his drive against "anti-British propaganda," Mayor Thompson snapped back that his drive had nothing to do with anything anti-British.

"I am simply trying to stop 'em from teaching the kids in Chicago that George Washington was a traitor and a rebel," he declared. "They've been doing it for four years, and it's got to stop."

The atmosphere at the Mayflower last night was little like the atmosphere of the Pilgrim ship that the hotel was named after. Just before the dinner hour eight stalwart Chicago cops gathered in the lobby, raised their megaphones to their mouths, and rendered Mayor Thompson's roaring campaign song, "America First."

"America first," they sang, "America last and always."

"The land of freedom and liberty."

Call Upon Coolidge.

As the carolling cops trailed off on "lib-er-tee," the Chicagoans in the lobby burst into applause.

Shortly after the party arrived on ten special cars yesterday morning, Mayor Thompson called on President Coolidge and discussed flood relief legislation with him.

A story went the rounds after Thompson's visit to the White House that he was asked by interviewers where he was going and replied that he would like to get a little drink.

"You might try the British Embassy," somebody suggested, according to the story. To which, it was said, the mayor snorted an angry reply.

Mayor Thompson's call him the "father of flood relief," and they tell about his 10,000-mile trip through the Mississippi basin after the last disastrous flood. Whenever he went, they said, he found that people were unanimously of the opinion that the Federal Government should do something to prevent another such disaster.

Mayors Flood Control.

"Mississippi flood control is a job for Uncle Sam," Mayor Thompson said. "No one else can do it, and if Uncle Sam doesn't do it, the Mississippi Valley section is going to rack and ruin. This is, as I say, an American issue and is not local, and politics should not figure in it."

If the National Government handles this job of controlling the Mississippi River and its tributaries, it's got to do it in bang-up fashion. There is no use dilly-dallying with it. There is no use fooling around throwing away a few millions a year if the job isn't going to be done right. The customary method of Congress to appropriate money for dabs here and there is the worst kind of extravagance.

Mayor Thompson has a huge suite of rooms at the Mayflower, and the three secretaries he brought here with him were as busy yesterday as they might be on election day at home. The secretaries are Robert J. Lyman, Miss Ruth Thompson and R. M. Ferberhner.

The mayor plans to leave Washington this afternoon. On his way to Chicago he will stop off at Mount Carmel, Pa.

PACT TO OUTLAW WAR APPROVED BY BORAH

Senators Look Upon French Proposal as Step in Right Direction.

The proposal of France for a treaty to outlaw war between that nation and America is regarded by chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, as a step in the right direction.

Preliminary conversations between the two countries, however, indicate that the question is still a long way from the treaty stage, and officials see little likelihood of concrete developments for some time. The proposal as forwarded by M. Briand, foreign minister to France, is understood to be merely a brief message outlining the plan. It is not in the form of a treaty, and this country is not expected to reply promptly until the return of France in about three weeks of Ambassador Herrick.

Another proposal for the outlawing of war, that advanced recently by William Stead, British journalist, and suggesting that America refrain from joining forces with a European nation waging aggressive warfare, is not looked upon with so much favor by Senator Borah. This proposal is understood by some to require that America refrain even from trading with such a nation and this, the Senator believes, would constitute a violation of neutrality and inevitably make this country "the peculiar arbiter of European warfare."

COURT HALTS APPEAL IN WAR FRAUD CASE

Phillips Lumber Action Must Await Auditor's Report, Appellate Court Rules.

The defendants in the Phillips lumber case, one of the so-called war fraud cases, must wait upon the report of the auditor of the District Supreme Court before taking their case to the Court of Appeals, according to a decision of the latter tribunal yesterday.

The attempt was made to mandamus Justice Jennings Bailey, of the lower court, to compel him to fix bond on appeal, but this justice informed the appellate court that he was not through with the case.

The defendants, which included John L. Phillips, former Republican committeeman from Georgia, were assessed, in a memorandum opinion by Justice Bailey, more than $1,000,000 damages in an accounting suit filed by the Government in which the recovery of alleged secret profits in the sale of surplus cotton and lumber was sought.

A decree followed the opinion of Justice Bailey. Certain defendants were exonerated and others were assessed damages and the entire case was referred to the auditor for mathematical work which the court was not equipped to perform. The defendants insisted on taking the case immediately to the Court of Appeals and Justice Bailey declined to fix the bond on appeal.

U. S. SENDS NEW NOTE ON TARIFF TO PARIS AFTER PARLEY HERE

Clears Way for Negotiations on Commercial Treaty, Officials Believe.

COUNTERVAILING RATE HELD NO OBSTACLE

No Additional Delay Foreseen on That Score, Claudel Infers.

(Associated Press.)
The State Department answer to the last French communication on the tariff controversy was dispatched to Paris late yesterday after a conference between Ambassador Claudel and department officials.

The communication is understood to be confined to an explanation of technical points it was found necessary to clear up as a preliminary to the opening of negotiations between the two governments for a commercial treaty that would regularize tariff relationships.

Washington officials were hopeful that the new note would be the last with France and that provisional tariff agreement between the two countries finally to bring about a virtual complete agreement on a provisional regime that will relieve American exports to France, however, the possible delay in starting the actual treaty negotiations is held to be of no particular significance.

In the course of his conference yesterday with Assistant Secretary William Castle, Jr., it is understood that Ambassador Claudel made it clear that the French government was not greatly concerned over the question of American countervailing duties on French imports and that there would be no additional delay on that score.

The new American note explains the operation of American tariff law in regard to these duties, which prevents their complete withdrawal, but it has been stated previously that the total amount of money involved in these schedules during the provisional regime was too small to be of importance to either government.

Will Rogers Fears He'll Be Recalled For His Criticisms

Special to The Washington Post.
Laguna, N. Mex., Nov. 7.—"They struck oil on the Navajos' land over three years ago," I foolishly asked, "How often do they get their payments for their oil royalty?" Well, they hadn't any yet.
"They took a million of it to build a bridge across the Little Colorado River so tourists wouldn't have to drive so far around to see the Grand Canyon. The Navajos paid for the bridge and there has never been a Navajo crossed it yet. If the Indians' oil royalties held out they will have enough to build the Boulder Dam for the whites."
Poor! I suppose I will be recalled for telling this, like Magruder and Summerville.
Yours, WILL ROGERS.

MAGRUDER, IN CAPITAL, IS ON WAITING ORDERS

Detachment From Command Is Indefinite but Full Pay Continues.

MAY DRAFT REFORMS

Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, relieved of command of Philadelphia Navy Yard, following publication of articles criticizing overorganization of the navy, arrived here yesterday, and was placed in a status of "waiting orders" by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who declined to reveal what took place in a conference between him and the rear admiral.

Rear Admiral Magruder has been detached from command for an indefinite period, and will continue to draw full pay, allowances amounting to $9,700 a year. Whether he will go to his home in Mississippi, or remain here to draft a plan to remedy conditions which he alleges are only $200,000,000 spent, is not yet known.

It is believed the Secretary of the Navy desires to give him the opportunity to present his views to Congress if he or that body wishes.

Although the Secretary, at the time Rear Admiral Magruder was relieved of command, explained the action was not a disciplinary but an administrative one, it is regarded in departmental circles as discipline, not for his original article published in the Saturday Evening Post but for critical statements made since. Whether he will be subject to further discipline depends on his activity while waiting orders, it is believed.

Following Rear Admiral Magruder's article criticizing the navy, the department requested information from him which was characterized officially as evasive and unsatisfactory. While it was believed that Rear Admiral Magruder's utterances since publication of the article had displeased Secretary Wilbur, it was made clear yesterday that Secretary Wilbur did not wish his action to be construed as an effort to suppress facts.

MILICENT ROGERS IS AGAIN A BRIDE

dashed from the building, laughing gaily, she carrying a huge bouquet of chrysanthemums. They quickly climbed into the Rogers automobile and were hurried to the family home, the Beach House, where they will remain in seclusion until Thursday, when they will sail for South America.

Only immediate members of the family were present at the ceremony. Robert D. Coe was best man and Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien, the former Katherine Mackay, was matron of honor. Others present, in addition to the bride's parents, included Henry H. Rogers, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Newell W. Tilton. Shortly after the ceremony Col. and Mrs. Rogers motored to the home of the bride's grandfather. While the illness of Benjamin, known as the peace-maker of the Rogers family, may have been serious enough to alter Millicent's nuptials, it had no apparent effect on the spirits of the family. The front hallway of the Beach House was decorated with flowers. Millicent and her husband sent word out to newspaper men they would have nothing to say to them. Col. H. H. Rogers, who is stern and incommunicative, fairly beamed on reporters.

He was happy, there was no doubt of that, and he smiled his way through a torrent of questions. The multimillionaire father who had sought so strenuously to bring to an end his daughter's romance with Count Salm seemed eagerly to seize upon the occasion as an opportunity to discard his usual cold exterior.

"Does Millicent intend to become a Catholic?" was one of the queries put to him.

"Well, she married a Catholic and it's up to her."

To the formal announcement of the happy wedding, Col. Rogers added: "All festivities have been called off. I have even had the phone service discontinued. We do not wish to be disturbed."

The young couple were filled with anxiety earlier in the day, lest a dispensation from the Pope should not arrive in time. The dispensation was necessary because Millicent was divorced from Count Salm. As soon as Father Kelly received word from Rome, granting the papal permission, the couple, informally attired, presented themselves before him.

There were many and varied reports of the Rogers' largest after the nuptials. It was declared that Col. Rogers had set up a trust fund of $500,000 for the newly weds and that in turn Ramos signed papers waiving any future claim to the Rogers wealth. It was reported also that he had made a wedding gift of $500,000 outright to the couple. Efforts to ascertain the truth of these reports found Millicent's father unwilling either to affirm or deny them.

COULD STATES MEETS TO REPEAL ESTATE TAX

Here to Tell Congress What People Want, Texan Tells Opening Session.

TOO MANY REGULATING LAWS, SORLIE ASSERTS

Spokesman Appointed to Appear Before Ways and Means Committee.

Massing its forces in defense of "States' rights," the National Council of State Legislatures yesterday named spokesmen to appear before the House ways and means committee today in a fight for repeal of the Federal estate tax, at initial sessions of the organization in the Raleigh Hotel.

Delegations from 40 States, each designated one of their number to speak at the Federal inheritance tax hearings before the ways and means committee. In addition to their States, the spokesmen will represent 155 delegates who registered yesterday for the council's 3-day sessions.

Those who come to Washington "lose their balance," and the very atmosphere in Washington is "federalized," John Henry Kirby, of Texas, declared yesterday before the opening session of the council. "Let us get away from politics to their States, the spokesmen will represent 155 delegates who registered yesterday for the council's 3-day sessions."

Fault Held With Congress.
"The fault in the case of the estate tax," Kirby said, "is not that we do not want to denounce Congress. The trouble is that a few boys up there do not know what the people want and they are trying to do it for them."

"If our country dies it will be for all time. There will be no angel to roll away the stone from the tomb of our liberties. There will be no posterity to cry a crucified constitution."

Speaking from the floor, Gov. Sorlie of North Dakota, also pointed the need for repeal of the Federal estate tax. Declaring the tax not a revenue measure, but an effort to regulate large fortunes, he contended the Federal Government should not enter this field.

"We have too many national laws and too many laws in the States," he said, "and the Federal Government should not enter this field."

Lee Satterwhite, former speaker of the Texas Legislature, presided at the morning session, and Lieut. Gov. Philip Bennet of Missouri in the afternoon.

Originally War Measure.
"The estate tax was originally adopted as a war measure, but Congress developed the idea of keeping it as a means of breaking up large estates," Kirby contended. "It is a war measure also adopted for an 80 per cent deduction for States which have an inheritance tax."

He said the States to enact the sort of inheritance tax which Congress thinks they should have. It is an encroachment upon the rights of the States which we should resist. Congress might as well tell us what kind of an income, automobile or gasoline tax we should have.

The delegates were welcomed by J. Ronald Horsey, of Maryland. He declared that "never before in our history have so many States sent special representatives to a conference of this kind to make a determined effort to stop further centralization of power in Washington." He said the conference will go down in history as marking a "new era" in the history of our Government.

Against Other Violations.
Speaking at the afternoon session, George Bell Zimmerman, of South Carolina, urged that the council not restrict its fight to the Federal estate tax, but extend its efforts to prevent "other violation of States' rights."

The council went into executive session last night, following a convention dinner in the Raleigh Hotel. William H. Blodgett, of Connecticut, of Congress, was appointed to conduct today's hearing before the congressional committee. Committees were named as follows:

New business, Reese Candler, Arizona, chairman; John H. Carkin, Oregon; P. W. Jenkins, Wyoming; Guy L. Jones, Iowa; David Logan, Oklahoma. Nominations, R. L. Baca, New Mexico, chairman; Gilbert Morgan, Ohio; James S. Milloy, North Dakota; E. Thomas Boyd, Virginia; Jesse J. Dook, Illinois. Credentials, A. P. Prymire, Louisiana, chairman; E. B. Haskell, J. Francis Lochord and William Winthrop. Resolutions, John H. Kirby, Texas, chairman; Gov. Sorlie, North Dakota; Franklin S. Edmonds, Pennsylvania; Robert Lincoln Patterson, California, and Andrew J. Gorvy, Texas.

Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, declared last night that the council organized 70 years too late to save the sovereignty of the State. State sovereignty has been destroyed as Federal authority has become more and more centralized, he told the delegates.

ing Democrat on the committee, said he thought the Treasury limit of $225,000,000 on total tax reduction was low and that a cut of $300,000,000 or $350,000,000 appeared possible.

F. W. Proctor, of Baltimore, speaking for the automobile equipment association, and S. M. Jett, representing the Rubber Association of America, also advocated abolition of the auto sales tax.

L. F. Delates, of Chicago, representing the Chicago Grain Exchange Committee, and C. D. Sturdevant, Omaha, Nebraska, for the grain dealers national association, sought repeal of the one-cent tax on future sales in grain, cotton and produce, saying the levy was a nuisance tax and troublesome to both the Government and exchanges.

Levi Cooke, of Washington, representing the cereal growers, asked abolition of the tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent on cereal beverages.

FUND FOR PHILANTHROPIC USES PLANNED BY ELKS

Foundation Would Be National in Scope and Be Created in Various Ways.

COMMITTEE MEETS HERE

Plans for a large fund, the proceeds of which will be used for philanthropic and humanitarian projects in the United States were discussed by the Elks National Foundation Committee at a meeting attended by Grand Exalted Ruler John F. Malley of the national organization, at the Carlton Hotel yesterday.

Rush L. Holland, former Assistant Attorney General and past grand exalted ruler of national Elks, and Joseph T. Fanning, of New York, with Frederick Harper, of Lynchburg, formed an advisory committee to the group which reported favorably on the proposed foundation.

Malley announced that the fraternal order has been conducting an investigation to determine how it could best serve humanity through its many lodges.

The survey disclosed that Elks groups in various sections of the country are giving aid to causes so widely separated that the national order decided that it would establish a foundation by subscription, by the use of surplus from the Elks' Magazine and possibly by other means.

The fund, which will be apportioned to the branches of the order for any philanthropic purpose.

The committee composed of James R. Nicholson, of Boston; Charles E. Pickett, former member of Congress, of Watertown, Iowa; Raymond Benjamin, of San Francisco; and John F. Malley, of New Orleans; and James G. McFarland, of Watertown, S. D., reported favorably on the measure proposed and discussed the various requests, the proceeds from which will be apportioned to the branches of the order for any philanthropic purpose.

Before leaving for his home in Boston, Malley declared that the lodges throughout the country are showing great interest and enthusiasm for the foundation plan. "It is serving as a great incentive to the lodges to organize and function through their state associations," he said.

DAWES SHOWS GAIN FOR 1928 NOMINATION

agreement when he made the gubernatorial race last year that he would carry the electoral nomination in 1928, he is said now to be entirely satisfied with his treasury job. The campaign last year left many party sores and the indications are that the party has been little in the way of healing.

Attorney General Ottinger was the only one of the party to come through with a victory. Being the only Republican in office in the State he is said to have thought that he should have been permitted to deliver the keynote address at the recent State convention.

Instead the honor was given to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, the younger. It is significant that Ottinger did not attend the convention. All in all the party is far from being in good shape in that State.

Don't Want to Take Chances.

Smith, as the Democratic nominee, would make other Eastern States doubtful. So is it not surprising that public leaders not to take any chances with the West.

Hoover's ups and downs are being watched closely by Eastern leaders. They were considerably encouraged when Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College, exonerated him of the Middle Western charge that he fixed the price of wheat during the war. But almost before this had a chance to get Hoover in good standing with the farmers, Senator Scott of Missouri let it be known that he was prepared to show that Hoover did fix the price of wheat. In fact, the Missouri senator seems to be capable of showing the farmers that Hoover, instead of being their friend, was their deliberate enemy.

The philosophy underlying Senator Curtis' candidacy is quite reasonable. He foresees the time when there will be a search for a man who can best merge the forces of the East and West, and is in this search that he will have his chance.

This same philosophy gives hope to Davis' friends and the talk among the leaders now that they have accepted the President as definitely out of the race, is heartening to these friends, to say the least. In the opinion of one Republican prophet, whose record is such as to give his prophecies all sorts of weight, it will be Davis regardless of how many delegates Lowden might transfer to him. The party must go to the Mississippi Valley for its candidate, he says, and once there it is Davis—that's all.

PASSENGER AIR LINE FORMED TO LINK U. S. AND SOUTH AMERICA

CONTROL OF SOUTHERN PLANE SYSTEM BOUGHT

Purchase Gives Air Mail Contract Between Key West and Havana.

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Formation of a company to control a through airway line connecting North and South America and carrying passengers, express and mail, was announced today by Robert Atkins, of the banking firm of Hayden, Stone & Co.

The new company will be known as the Atlantic Gulf & Caribbean Airline, Inc. Those heading the company include Percy A. Rockefeller, Richard F. Hoyt, and other members of the firm of Hayden, Stone & Co.

The Atlantic Gulf & Caribbean Co., which recently was incorporated in Delaware, has purchased a controlling interest and now is the holding company of the Pan-American Airways, Atkins said. The Pan-American Co. at present is operating an airplane mail service between Key West, Fla., and Havana.

To Seek More Contracts.
The holding organization, Atkins said, will seek additional air mail contracts as they are offered for the transportation of mail up the coast of the Southern States.

Eventually, Atkins added, other companies will be formed as subsidiaries of the Atlantic Gulf & Caribbean Co., and in this manner it is hoped to form a through airway line connecting the two continents. The routes that the operating companies would control already have been laid out, he said, adding that Central America would be included in the link rather than the West Indies, where another company now is operating.

It is not the intention of the promoters, Atkins said, to solicit passenger traffic on the route between Key West and Havana until after "we have demonstrated with several months of service with the mails that the land planes are wholly fitted for the flight."

-$10,000 Sought in Suit.
Mrs. Mabel Holley, administratrix of the estate of Louis Holley, deceased, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against the George Hyman Construction Co. to recover $10,000 damages for the death of Holley. Through Attorneys Patterson and Campbell it is alleged that a boulder, loosened by a dynamite explosion, fell on Holley as he was at work for the Construction Co. on Conduit road on August 9.

CIVIL AVIATION PLANS GIVEN TO PRESIDENT

Secretary Hoover Submits His Program to Assist Commercial Flying.

The Commerce Department's program for developing aid to commercial aviation was laid before President Coolidge yesterday by Secretary Hoover. Also at the conference were Assistant Secretary MacCracken, in charge of aviation in the Commerce Department, and Director Lord of the budget.

Although the President has manifested an interest in the development of civil aeronautics and has expressed a desire that the Government lend a helping hand, the outcome of the White House meeting was not disclosed. Mr. Coolidge having let it be known that his recommendations to Congress would not be given effect in advance of his annual message. It developed, however, that the Commerce Department has under consideration numerous devices to pave the way for safer air transportation by private interests, corresponding to the safeguards which have been set up by the Government for mariners.

Among the things for which it is expected funds are the erection of beacon lights for night flying and adequate signs to mark the way during the day, along with the installation of radio equipment which would permit aviators to find their location after having become temporarily lost in a storm.

NEW YORK ELECTION TODAY SEES AS TEST OF SMITH STRENGTH

Governor's Grip Lost if 4-Year Amendment Passes, Republicans Say.

OFFICIAL OPPOSES VOTE IN PRESIDENTIAL YEAR

Subway Bond Proposal Expected to Cause Fight in Metropolis.

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—New York State's off-year election campaign, with popular interest focused upon a proposed amendment to the constitution providing for a four-year term for governor, came to a quiet close tonight. The amendment, which is being advocated by Gov. Alfred E. Smith as an important part of his State reorganization plan, but when the measure was adopted by the last legislature the Republicans succeeded in inserting a clause providing that the governor should be elected in presidential years.

This drew the Democratic governor's fire on the ground that the State's interest would be submerged in national issues. He has taken the stump against the proposal and has made a number of radio addresses advocating its defeat.

The political soothsayers are watching the vote of this amendment tomorrow with unusual interest because they believe the result will show which way the straws are bending for next year's presidential campaign.

The Republicans believe that if the amendment is adopted it will mean that the governor has lost his grip; but on the other hand, the Democrats point out that the governor's presidential aspirations are not concerned in a purely State question.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who was defeated for governor by Gov. Smith in 1917, has been the chief spokesman for the Republicans. Except for a violent attack upon the governor and his Tammany connections and a last-minute appeal to the State's Chief Executive in which he charged the governor with evading the chief issues, the campaign has been quiet.

Eight other proposed amendments to the constitution are to be voted upon. Except for the proposal to enable New York City to borrow $300,000 for extending subways, there has been little opposition to the other proposed measures.

The voters will also elect 150 members of the State legislature, a representative and one State senator to fill vacancies caused by death, ten justices of the Supreme Court and mayors of 51 cities.

Both Parties Claim Big Victory in Kentucky Vote

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Kentucky's thirty-ninth governor is to be elected tomorrow, Republican by 40,000 majority eight years ago and Democratic by 40,000 four years ago, the State tonight was claimed for each party by a majority of upward of 40,000 votes.

A complete municipal and county election in Louisville, necessitated by the action of the court of appeals in unseating the Republican incumbent because of a corrupt and fraudulent election in 1925, shared interest with the State election.

Claimed by the Democrats by a majority of "no less than 45,000," and for the Republicans by "between 40,000 and 60,000, depending upon the weather and the number of votes cast," the State vote was expected by both parties to be one of the heaviest in many years.

Moderate rain, with rising temperature Tuesday, was the weather forecast for the entire State. It was not known tonight whether the rains would be heavy enough to affect country roads and thereby cut into the rural vote.

Heavy rains were general throughout Kentucky today, however.

hands. His Republican opponent, Judge Flen D. Samson, of the Court of Appeals, the State's highest tribunal. The horse racing question entered into the campaign, Beckham advocating repeal of the pari-mutuel betting law.

Among the constitutional amendments to be passed upon by New York voters is one providing for four-year terms for governors and other elective State officials instead of the present two-year terms. State campaigns to coincide with presidential. Gov. Smith and his supporters have been active in opposition to this proposal.

In New Mexico there also is a proposal to increase the terms of State officers from two to four years, and among other constitutional amendments one to increase the pay of legislators from $5 to $10 a day and their traveling expenses to 10 cents a mile.

In Ohio the recent supreme court decision curbing the powers of "kangaroo" courts has an echo in the referendum on the new State law which would give mayors and justices of the peace authority to collect $250 a month in fees from criminal cases. The proposal has the support of the Antislavery League and the opposition of automobile clubs.

HE DENIES SEEKING WEDDING "BUSINESS"

Former Ellicott City Minister Sues Fellow Clergyman for $10,000.

Frederick, Md., Nov. 7.—On the witness stand in the Circuit Court here today the Rev. James H. Anderson, a retired minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, denied that he had ever approached couples to solicit "marriage business" at the Ellicott City courthouse. He admitted, however, that he had questioned young men and women leaving the building to ascertain if they had been directed to any special minister for the performance of the marriage ceremony.

The minister was testifying in his suit for $10,000 against the Rev. Edward M. Parrish, pastor of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, of Ellicott City, for alleged publication of slanderous statements. The trial began before Judges Glenn H. Worthington and Robert B. Peter and a jury here today.

The suit is based on a resolution passed by the official board of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church. In the resolution, the Rev. Mr. Anderson is alleged to have "openly and flagrantly violated the ethics of the ministry by soliciting marriages in Ellicott City."

Ten or fifteen witnesses may be heard in the hearing which is expected to last throughout tomorrow.

Candidacy Announced By Ruth Bryan Owen

Miami, Fla., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Miami Herald tomorrow will publish a letter in which Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, announces her candidacy for Congress from this district. The announcement was mailed from Mason City, Iowa, where the daughter of the "commoner," then was in the course of a lecture tour.

Representative W. J. Sears, incumbent, generally is expected to make the race again. He defeated Mrs. Owen last year by a small margin.

New Record Is Sought For Loaded Seaplanes

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—An attempt to break the world's altitude record for loaded seaplanes will be made Wednesday, Lieut. Jack Iseman, of the Rockaway, Long Island, Naval Air Station, announced today.

Flying an O.T.U. Navy plane equipped with a 450-horsepower motor fixed with a supercharger and carrying 1,100 pounds of sand ballast, Iseman said he will take off in an endeavor to establish a better record than the present one of 22,000 feet.

CHURCH ISSUE CHARGED IN DETROIT'S CAMPAIGN

Mayor Smith Makes Radio Plea for Votes Today; Lodge Silent.

REGISTRATIONS CHECKED

Detroit, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—A final appeal by Mayor John W. Smith in a radio address to Detroit voters tonight marked the close of a majority campaign unprecedented in the political history of the city. John C. Lodge, Mayor Smith's opponent in the election tomorrow, maintained the silence which has marked him as the sole candidate for mayor in this city who has refrained from making speeches in the belief that "the office should seek the man."

Charges and denials from both political campaigns, although not issued with the stamp of Mayor Smith or Lodge, that last-minute attempts have been made to inject religious issues into the campaign featured the final hours. A check of alleged fraudulent registrations by Richard W. Reading, city clerk, was being continued despite charges that voters were being disfranchised by a purposeful attempt to intimidate them. To this charge Reading replied:

"I am not interested in any candidacy, but I am interested in keeping the election clean and eliminating fraud. More than 100 warrants have been issued against persons accused of registering falsely, and approximately 1,200 other cases are waiting final investigation by the prosecuting attorney's office."

Although the voters are asked to pass upon various municipal ordinances, including one which would permit a private concern to build an international subway between Detroit and Windsor, the majority campaign held the stage.

The wet and dry question, injected into the campaign by Mayor Smith, who declared the prohibition laws could not be strictly enforced in a city, has played an important part in the campaign, although both wet and dry organizations have declared it is not an issue.

Lodge's supporters have avoided discussion of prohibition enforcement inasmuch as their candidate has not endorsed or attacked the dry movement. A record vote is forecast.

Philadelphia, Pittsburgh Mayors to Be Elected

Philadelphia, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania electors go to the polls tomorrow to vote for a small army of county and municipal officers. One representative will be elected to fill a vacancy.

The outstanding fights are in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. In Philadelphia the independents are making a drive against the present Republican organization. The battle revolves around the mayoralty, for which the leading candidates are City Treasurer Harry A. Mackey, backed by Senator-elect W. S. Vare, and former mayor J. Hampton Moore, who has the support of independent Republicans.

The Mackey campaigns have been exhorting the electors to vote the regular party ticket, on the ground that a big Republican majority this year means a Republican President next year. Mackey also has promised economy in administration and better paved streets.

Moore and his campaigners have been hammering away at the present leadership, charging it with extravagance and tyranny in local government. Moore is running under the auspices of the Little Citizens party, which has a full city and county ticket in the field.

Channel Swim Hoax Costs Her $500 Fine

London, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Dorothy Logan's now famous channel "hoax to end hoaxes" has cost her something over $500 in hard cash in addition to the storm of criticism which burst about her head when the story of her fake channel swim of last month became known.

With her trainer, Horace Carey, Dr. Logan appeared in police court today to answer charges brought by the public prosecutor under the perjury act for making a false declaration in connection with her so-called swim. She was fined £100 and 10 guineas in costs, while Carey was fined £50 and 5 guineas in costs on her plea of guilty.

Antislavery League Backs Referendum Bill; Autoists See Peril in It.

TO PICK REPRESENTATIVE

Cleveland, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The tumult and shouting of the most bitterly fought referendum in recent years was at its height over Ohio tonight as voters prepared to accept or reject the Marshall justice of peace bill in tomorrow's elections.

The Marshall bill, designed to correct unconstitutional features of Ohio's petty court system pointed out by the United States Supreme Court when it reversed the conviction of a Cincinnati defendant in 1925, holds highest interest at the polls, although attacks on the city charters of Cleveland and Cincinnati, the congressional election in the Second district and scores of municipal and judgeship elections are scheduled.

The Marshall bill is backed by the Antislavery League, which expects to carry a supermajority and carrying 1,100 pounds of sand ballast, Iseman said he will take off in an endeavor to establish a better record than the present one of 22,000 feet.

Too Fat, Man Tells Judge, to Be Honest

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—"I'm too fat to be honest," Jerry Marata, 26, who tips the scales at almost 400 pounds, told a judge today, when arraigned for passing a fraudulent check.

"I didn't want to do it, judge," he said, "but I'm so fat that nobody will give me a job, so I had to write the check to get food."

The judge continued the case to permit him to make restitution.

Suit Over Spirit Bride Hinges on Contract

Wichita, Kans., Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Efforts of John Seybold, 75-year-old farmer, to obtain a $7,500 judgment to cover money he alleges he spent on "Sarah," his spirit bride, and in transactions suggested by other ghosts continued up by Mrs. Nellie C. Moore, spiritualist, met with a severe setback in court here today.

Judge J. E. Alexander ruled that Seybold could not recover damages from Mrs. Moore unless he could produce authority to show that a contract entered into with the medium was illegal. Three days was allowed for the plaintiff's attorneys to introduce further evidence regarding the contract, under which Seybold sought to recover as much of his loss as possible.

The farmer had related on the witness stand last week how he married "Sarah" at a seance conducted by Mrs. Moore.

WASHINGTON WILLS TO BE ILLUMINATED

Fairfax County Accepts Electrical League Gift of Light Fixtures for Exhibit.

The Board of Supervisors of Fairfax County have voted to accept the proposal of J. Kent White, electrical contractor of Alexandria to install, free of cost to the county, special lighting fixtures over the glass cases containing the wills of George and Martha Washington, which are on exhibition in the office of the clerk of the court.

Several weeks ago, when the Electrical League of Northern Virginia, of which Mr. White is president, were holding their convention in the Fairfax Tavern, Mr. White invited the members to inspect the Washington wills. They found that the lighting arrangements in the clerk's office were so poor that the wills could hardly be read, and Mr. White suggested to Deputy Clerk Holbrook, who was acting as host to the party, that he be allowed to install fixtures over the glass cases which would throw the light directly upon the wills and enable them to be read.

The matter was submitted to the Board of Supervisors, which gave its approval, and the new fixtures will be installed shortly. Mr. White explained that the fixture he will use is somewhat similar to that used on a piano to light the music, throwing the light directly on the object to be illuminated, while shading the eyes of the observer.

Ohio Inquiry Is Ordered On Eve of Election Day

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Gov. Donahoe today ordered Attorney General Edward C. Turner to institute special grand jury proceedings in Toledo and Lucas County to investigate charges of registration irregularities in connection with tomorrow's municipal election.

The governor's action followed a conference between himself and the attorney general at which they considered more than 100 warrants have been issued against persons accused of registering falsely, and approximately 1,200 other cases are waiting final investigation by the prosecuting attorney's office.

Although the voters are asked to pass upon various municipal ordinances, including one which would permit a private concern to build an international subway between Detroit and Windsor, the majority campaign held the stage.

The wet and dry question, injected into the campaign by Mayor Smith, who declared the prohibition laws could not be strictly enforced in a city, has played an important part in the campaign, although both wet and dry organizations have declared it is not an issue.

Lodge's supporters have avoided discussion of prohibition enforcement inasmuch as their candidate has not endorsed or attacked the dry movement. A record vote is forecast.

Philadelphia, Pittsburgh Mayors to Be Elected

Philadelphia, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania electors go to the polls tomorrow to vote for a small army of county and municipal officers. One representative will be elected to fill a vacancy.

The outstanding fights are in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. In Philadelphia the independents are making a drive against the present Republican organization. The battle revolves around the mayoralty, for which the leading candidates are City Treasurer Harry A. Mackey, backed by Senator-elect W. S. Vare, and former mayor J. Hampton Moore, who has the support of independent Republicans.

FARM RELIEF.

A valued friend of The Post, a man who long ago reached prominence in both farming and politics, and who is not now compromised by any special interest in either of these glorious professions, writes to us as follows:

Keep up the good work against fool legislation for "farm relief." The farmers have relief in their own hands. All they have to do is to raise what they need for their own consumption. Stop at a Wisconsin farmhouse for a glass of milk and you won't get it. Try to get a chicken in rural New York—they buy chickens from the town. South Carolina imports three-fourths of the butter consumed in the State. So it goes throughout the Union. The farmers have made themselves slaves of single crops instead of producing what they need themselves.

Senator Capper recently stated that the farmers received $10,000,000,000 annually for products that cost the consumers of the country $30,000,000,000. He drew the conclusion that farmers should organize their own marketing system. So they should. Consumers do not object to the creation of a marketing system controlled by farmers. Consumers share the belief that if producers were organized to market farm products, the price at the farm would go up and the price to the consumer would go down. If $20,000,000,000 is the price paid to middlemen for the work of distributing products from the farm to the consumer, it is high time that the producer should become a marketer.

But the task of organizing the farmers of the United States is confronted by staggering obstacles. Much time must be consumed in solving this problem, if indeed it can be solved at all. Farmers now living will be gathered to their fathers before the ideal system of marketing can be evolved. There is nothing, however, to prevent any farmer from immediately changing his methods, if he cares to do so. He can raise pigs, chickens and garden truck, besides developing a dairy large enough to supply milk, butter and cheese. With these products any farm can be made practically self-contained and more independent of the vicissitudes of the grain, cotton and cattle markets.

Wherever Southern farmers have gone in for raising pigs, chickens and dairy cattle, together with garden truck, better conditions prevail. Many communities in the South have already emancipated themselves from slavery to cotton by producing what they consume. A return to old-fashioned diversified farming in the great wheat and corn belts would do more for "farm relief" than all the legislation that has been proposed.

In the meantime, the organization of farm-marketing associations on a continental scale should be undertaken, and it is proper that the Government should extend a helping hand in the creation of these organizations.

WASTE IN THE KITCHEN.

A survey made by a mid-Western utility company concerns itself with the amount of food wasted throughout the country annually. Only 55 per cent of the 28,750,000 homes in the country are equipped with refrigerators. It is found, and but 20 per cent of these use ice the year round. Consequently, each family wastes about 10 cents' worth of food daily by spoilage, or $35 annually. Thus the American housewife wastes approximately $700,000,000 worth of food each year.

Yet, when everything is taken into consideration, this is not such a bad record. In proportion to food consumed, it is a tribute to the ability of the American housewife that so little of it is wasted. If it is possible to cut the loss it should be done, of course; but if each home wastes no more than 10 cents' worth of food each day there is no reason for complaint.

It is impossible to run a kitchen without waste. The ability to make use of left-overs is highly commendable, but—and any man will testify as to this—there is a limit beyond which the practice should not go. Left-overs are all right on the first day out. On the second day they lose some of their appeal. By the time the Sunday turkey has gone through the process of being creamed, hashed, served cold and finally transmuted into soup, one's appetite for turkey has become somewhat faded. Perhaps, after all, it is just as well that the American housewife should "waste" 10 cents' worth of food each day. Otherwise, in her insatiable desire to utilize left-overs, she might lose a fairly satisfactory husband.

RADIO AMATEURS.

The American amateur radio operator has never by any stretch of the imagination been granted preferential treatment. Assigned a wave length band of limited scope, he set about to turn it to good advantage, experimenting and developing until he originated a system of communications on the previously despised low wave lengths. Although he uses only comparatively infinitesimal power, he bridges great distances satisfactorily. Amateurs have carried on conversations over thousands of miles. They have cast their messages over land and sea into remote places in which no other connection with the outside world exists. They have played a major part in the development of short-wave broadcasting.

The New England floods have served to demonstrate again the value and ability of America's radio amateurs. It was a Washington station that first established communication with the stricken zone, receiving a request from the chairman of the Montpelier Red Cross that food and funds be rushed by airplane. Later through this station a regular schedule for other amateur operators in the flood area was organized through which, even after emergency wire connections were reestablished, scores of messages were handled.

Brig. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, chief signal officer of the Army, in commenting the work of the amateurs, said: "On every occasion where a national catastrophe demands their services, the Army relay league has distinguished itself." Its past record guarantees its future usefulness. America's radio amateurs constitute an important reserve line of defense. In peace or war they stand ready with a well-developed communications machine, extending from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico, which continues functioning when other agencies are crippled.

NEW YORK'S GOVERNORSHIP.

New York voters will decide today whether the term of its governor shall be four years in length or remain fixed at two years. "Amendment No. 6" proposes that the term of the governor shall be four years, and that it run concurrently with that of the President of the United States. In presidential years the State's usually regarded as safely Republican, and the Republican nominee for governor in those years is generally certain of election. In the off years, on the contrary, the opposing party is frequently successful in electing its candidate.

The four-year proposition is opposed vigorously by the Democratic leaders, among whom Gov. Smith is most prominent. In his speech at Buffalo a few weeks ago Gov. Smith declared that "When it comes to the best interests of the State of New York, I do not care any more about the Democratic party than I do about the Republican party." The governor suggests that there is great danger that a second-rate man "may find himself in the executive offices in Albany riding behind a great national issue absorbing the public mind." In his opinion that danger can be avoided if the term of the governor shall begin and end in the middle of a presidential term. He states at the close of the campaign that his opposition to the amendment is not based on politics, but "what I firmly believe in my heart to be the very best interests of the State of New York."

In spite of Gov. Smith's insistence on the nonpartisan character of his motives, Republicans contend that if the State were normally Democratic in presidential elections the fear that a "second-rate man might ride in on a great national issue" would be forgotten, and that Gov. Smith would be favorably disposed toward the amendment.

THE Y. W. C. A.

The Young Women's Christian Association expects to accommodate no fewer than 7,600 girls and women with rooms during the coming year and to supply at least 600,000 meals to the roomers and others. But it is not alone shelter and food that are supplied to thousands of Washington women, as well as strangers. Everything conducive to the comfort and happiness of womankind is made available by this admirable organization. Educational classes are maintained, and it is anticipated that there will be an attendance of not less than 2,000 women during 1928, while 50,000 will enjoy the recreation camp, the recreation center, and the Vacation Lodge, at Cherrydale.

The Young Women's Christian Association has a budget. Aside from its income from the rental of rooms and the business of the cafeterias and restaurants, $60,000 will be needed during the year to maintain the downtown center, the recreation center, the Elizabeth Somers residence, the Vacation Lodge and Kamp Kahert. The campaign for funds and subscriptions is at its height. Every citizen should feel glad to support this organization, whose influence for good is far-reaching and permanent.

Drives always achieve their greatest headway during the final days, so that when the figures of the results of the luncheon meeting on Monday disclosed contributions to the amount of $5,004.53 for that day, with a total of $17,855.38 pledged to date, there was much applause at the headquarters of the association at Seventeenth and K streets. This is where the smiling ladies are ready to greet all their friends, without reference to age, sex or previous condition, and where the contribution box has ample accommodations for the receipt of dimes, quarters, dollars, or what have you.

In the language of the side show ballyhoo, "Don't be backward in coming forward" for there is room for all and plenty of receipts ready to fill out.

"Let your light so shine."

STATES OPPOSE ESTATE TAX.

Every State of the Union will be represented before the ways and means committee on Tuesday and Wednesday, when a concerted appeal will be made to the committee to include a provision for the repeal of the estate tax law. William H. Blodgett, tax commissioner of Connecticut, will have charge of the presentation of pleas. Mr. Blodgett states that the members of the National Council of State Legislatures are of the unanimous opinion that the intent of the present Federal estate tax was not to raise revenue but to coerce the States into levying uniform State tax laws. Mr. Blodgett will direct the attention of the committee to the statement of Secretary Mellon before that body on Monday of last week, in which the Secretary recommended the repeal of this particular law. Mr. Mellon pointed out that the revenue in the Federal Treasury will not exceed $7,000,000 annually if all the States accept the 80 per cent credit provision contained in the present law.

Twenty-three States have adopted resolutions calling on Congress to repeal the Federal estate tax, while of the remainder such a request has been endorsed by one house or the other in 6, and a canvass conducted among members in 15 others, where the legislatures were not in session, proves that a majority in each branch favors the repeal of the law.

Thus far, too, it will be shown to the committee that of the 48 States in which the estate tax is levied through the Internal Revenue

Bureau only 15 have accepted the 30 per cent provision and 12 of these accepted only under protest.

There can be no question as to the attitude of the great majority of the States toward this obnoxious provision of the Federal tax law. The sentiment of the country is nearly unanimous in demanding its repeal. It is difficult to conceive that the appeal of the National Council of State Legislatures will be ignored by the ways and means committee in framing the new tax bill.

LABOR GAINS IN BRITAIN.

Visitors to England this year, especially those whose interest in sociological tendencies induced them to look a little beneath the surface of things, came away with the impression that communism is making steady advances among various classes of the British community. Conditions, as they now exist in Britain, do, indeed, favor discontent, and make it easy for many of the populace to listen with credulity to the whisperings of agitators, native or foreign, regarding the millennium that is to come when the old order is gone, and sovietism, or something like it, holds sway in its stead. It is true, of course, that organized labor, through the Trade-Union Congress and individual trade-unions, has frowned on communism and refused its advocates a place in its midst, but the fact nevertheless remains that several of the trade-unions are honeycombed with communism as the result of debt and successful boring from within.

Every year, in November, the elections to the city and borough councils give a fairly accurate account. Most interest centered, perhaps, on Leeds. There, to the gasping astonishment of the rest of Britain, a laborite city council was elected last year. Not only was it elected, but it also proceeded from the beginning to carry out socialist experiments, and thereby incurred anathema from the other two parties. A determined attempt was made at last week's election to change the political complexion of this council, but the attempt failed miserably, for, instead of losing, labor actually made a net gain of two seats.

National elections do not always run along the lines of local elections, but the swing toward labor is so pronounced that it is causing heartburnings and heart searchings among the leaders of the other parties in the kingdom. In the ordinary course, the life of the present parliament would not expire until about two years from now, but public opinion may force an earlier dissolution. As a matter of fact, the labor leaders have been clamoring for a dissolution, and it is quite on the cards that the conservative cabinet may decide "to go to the country" in the near future, later, worse befall. The result of last week's elections has indeed produced an extremely interesting political situation in Britain.

CREATORS OF AVIATION.

On the heels of the announcement that Maj. de Bernardi, Italian airplane expert, had broken the world's speed record for hydroplanes, Lieut. Alford J. Williams, U. S. N., has laid claim to the unofficial speed record for land planes. Maj. de Bernardi was officially timed over the Venice-Lido course at an average of 298.67 miles per hour. Lieut. Williams kept his own time over a course lying between Curtiss and Mitchell Fields, Long Island, for a record of 322.6 miles per hour.

During this week, Lieut. Williams will continue his flights with the tiny blue and gold racer in the hope of officially establishing a world record. Disappointed in his hope of entering the ship in the Schneider Cup races for seaplanes, bad weather and mechanical troubles having intervened to prevent his getting to Italy in time, Lieut. Williams has pinned his hopes of bringing laurels to America on the revamped plane, on which the pontoons have been replaced with wheels. Although the unofficial record was gained by the aid of favorable wind, those who are familiar with the capabilities of the ship and its pilot believe that he can equal the speed then attained.

One by one old records have tumbled, until predictions of the ultimate are no longer made. Breathless progress is noted in extension of cruising radius, sustained flight, greater altitude and safety devices.

There is a tendency to decry all airplane contests, on the ground that the danger to human life overbalances any gain that may come therefrom. Yet contests constitute the crucible of airplane design. In them new ideas are subjected to the acid test of performance; and on the results achieved new ideas are suggested. Lieut. Williams and all other fliers who are striving for championship honors are the creators of modern aviation.

MICHIGAN HITS IT UP.

The new automobile traffic code that recently went into effect in Michigan makes the horizon the limit, so far as speed is concerned. Slow driving, which causes congestion, is prohibited. Each driver is expected to utilize caution at all times, and reckless driving is dealt with severely. If the road ahead is reasonably clear, however, with no crossroads, no children playing on the highway, and no congestion within sight, the law does not care what the speedometer registers. Careful observers of the new order hail it as the solution of the traffic problem. The "loafer" has been swept from the highways, road time between industrial centers has been diminished by 90 per cent, traffic congestion has been virtually eliminated, and despite the fact that the usual speed has become 55 and 60 miles an hour in the open country, a careful check-up of accidents and reckless driving reveals no increase in either.

Traffic authorities have been convinced for some time that the country must move automobiles at high speeds if congestion is to be avoided. Many States have increased their speed limits in recent years with this in view, but Michigan is the first to adopt so radical an innovation. The experiment, therefore, is being watched closely throughout the country with a view of adopting it elsewhere should Michigan find it desirable.

The automobile of today on a clear road is just as safe at speeds of 50 or 55 miles an hour as yesterday's was at 20. The danger today lies not so much in speed as in attempting to pass the car driven at 15 miles an hour, the "loafer" which holds up the entire traffic stream. With good brakes, good tires and good steering mechanism installed upon, and a reckless driving law rigidly enforced, there is little danger and much of advantage in authorizing high speed rules.

PRESS COMMENT.

Feet and Talking.
 San Francisco Chronicle: It's the fellow who can't talk on his feet who puts his foot in his mouth when he tries.

Good Senator Willis.
 Ohio State Journal: In our good Senator Willis' recent comprehensive statement on the issues of the day he did not actually announce his candidacy for the Presidency, and we suppose he was following Oliver Wendell Holmes' advice not to be as funny as one can all at once.

Ubiquitous Propaganda.
 Topeka Capital: If Mayor Bill Thompson confined himself to the charge that there is more or less constant British propaganda going on, he would not be far from the truth. There is. There is also French propaganda, German propaganda, American propaganda and so on. Just now extracts are being circulated, out of Canada, from pro-British organs in China such as the China Press and North China Daily News, in this country jumping on the Chinese independence movement, and defending outside pressure and interference in which England is active. That is propaganda, and it ought not to get very far among Americans.

The New Menace.
 Baltimore Sun: Illustrating a new menace, automobiles in Detroit have stabbed two people to death with the protruding devices on their radiator caps. Embattled pedestrians can, of course, don armor heavy enough to ward off such dagger-like thrusts, but the best plan seems to develop mobility, for in spite of efforts to give it a short turning radius the automobile can not dodge around like the really active pedestrian. Slower ones may perhaps find smoke screens helpful.

"Good Morrow."
 New Orleans Times Picayune: "Good morning," saith Mexico to—and of—the new American Ambassador.

A Dangerous Combination.
 Tuscon Dispatch: A two-man "control" for cars has been evolved by a blind and one-armed peddler. He is accompanied on his travels by his 9-year-old son, who, while on the road, sits on his father's lap and steers, while the elder member of the transportation partnership works the pedals with his feet at the direction of the eyes of the combination.

Christmas Is Coming.
 Atlanta Constitution: A sure sign of Christmas is the lavish display of neckties in haberdasheries.

A Happy Place.
 Worcester Telegram: Fortunate New Zealand claims for itself the lowest death rate of any country in the world. The expectancy of life for males is 61 years and for females 63. New Zealand has precipes, cyclones, wild animals and 100,000 descendants of the savage Maoris. But from its death rate one judges that it has comparatively few automobiles.

The Shakespeare Memorial.
 Philadelphia Public Ledger: The movement for rebuilding and endowing the Shakespeare Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon receives a decided impetus from the generous gift of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. His contribution of $500,000 will be equally divided between the American and English funds. It is sought to raise $1,000,000 in this country. Winthrop Ames has suggested that if every one who has ever used a phrase of Shakespeare's would subscribe a dime the amount would soon

The Happiest People

By ROBERT QUILEN

THE whiner complains that it is hard to die, and the cynical philosopher answers that this is a strange complaint to come from one who has had to live.

The whiner and the cynic have alike missed the true philosophy of life. When one has done his part well, nothing else matters. All troubles are transient, and sorrows yield to the gentle consolation of time. Fame and disgrace are but opinions, and opinions change with the passing years. Death is the worst misfortune that can befall us, and death is no more than a passport to a better land. Men fear death because they have no experience in it. So they would fear birth if given opportunity to picture its terrors.

Nothing that falls to the lot of men is worthy of anxious thought. The problems that trouble statesmen and the problems that trouble the householder are trivial matters, soon forgotten, and another age will smile over them. No man by taking anxious thought can mold the destiny of his kind. Each can leave a slight impress on his time, but mankind will go its accustomed way and the great of today will be forgotten in the coming centuries, or at most win mention in stuffy volumes to plague the memory of schoolboys.

The proper man with a proper philosophy looks no further than the task in hand. Doing the present work well is the whole of life. Tomorrow will furnish a task of its own. If one does his own task well, why worry about the tasks of kings? Let the great ponder over great matters while you lay the brick that is in your hand. If the great fail, what matter? If your brick is laid well it will stand as a monument to your honest skill after kings are in their tombs.

If you have done your best and ill befalls, the fault is not yours, but that of the scheme of things over which you have no control. Accept good with thanksgiving and ill without complaint. God still has a mandate for the world.

Three phases of man's growth: "Darn being a kid." "Darn kids." "I wish I were a kid."

Snakes aren't such a bad lot. They skin themselves instead of skinning one another.

be obtained. Charles E. Hughes testifies that having read every word of the immortal bard's writing, he is unable to discover a trace of British or anti-American propaganda. Chicago has not yet been heard from, but this enterprise to commemorate one who was "not of an age but for all time" may fittingly enlist the generous interest of all Americans, to whom, as much as to their English cousins, Shakespeare belongs.

For Suburban Service.
 St. Louis Post Dispatch: An assistant prohibition director says that railroad cars in which drinking is done may be adecked for a year. Still, that would leave the cars available for suburban service.

Little Left.
 Louisville Courier Journal: New fall dresses are described as hemless, hipless, sleeveless and neckless. And already it is a question of how much less they can get.

 Dallas News: Tammany is due to come out with a preconceived pledge to make "Dixie" the national anthem, or something.

Of Course.
 Milwaukee Journal: The people of New York are buying 700 carloads of grapes daily—to make jelly, of course.

How Unnatural!
 Philadelphia Inquirer: The Kansas State Highway Commission has ordered all billboards torn down along the roads under its control. How bare that State is going to appear with nothing but the scenery on view!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Modern Youth.
 To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Chicago statisticians tell us that city children of this time mature mentally three years and physically three and a half years earlier than did their parents. Just so. The dispatches prove this to be absolutely true. They tell us that four Pittsburgh boys between the ages of 8 and 12 years, after robbing several stores, endeavored to escape by using a stolen airplane. That couldn't have been done a generation ago. Certainly city boys of today are far ahead of their parents. I do not know; but doubtless the mothers of those four Pittsburgh boys had to give so much of their time to attending meetings of Child Welfare Societies they had none left to waste on their own boys. After looking over the news columns of the daily papers we will have to admit the Chicago statisticians are correct.

It Must Be Coolidge.
 To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With the number of candidates already in the field, and the others browsing around peeping through the fence, it looks as if the Republican party were preparing to nominate Mr. Coolidge, without asking him to choose. With the abundance of material offered, the party will find itself unable to make a choice, and will have to fall back on Mr. Coolidge. Would he accept, under such circumstances? Mr. Coolidge is a patriot. If the country demands his services he is not one to refuse.

It is not wrong for a man to desire to be President of the United States, and nothing can be said against either of those gentlemen who are openly in the field, because they are asking for that honor; but there are so many of them, each with his own following, that a choice between them can hardly be expected of the convention. Another thing is that Mr. Coolidge is a party man, and as such could not flout the party that has honored him in the past by refusing a nomination he did not ask for. His party has a right to call upon him for his services; and if it makes the call, he can not reject it. His personal preferences would have to give way.

THE VILLAGE OF WASHINGTON.

That the Capital of the United States still has many of the traits of a small town has often been remarked. observes the New York Times. One of them is a furious propensity to gossip. Washington will get "all het up" over a rumor, or an unexplained incident, as readily as will Liberty Corners.

The latest evidence of this is the excitement caused in Washington by the fact that Col. George Harvey took lunch with the President on Saturday. What could this possibly mean? Here was our great American king-maker conferring with the man who would not be king. Did this mean a change on the part of the latter? Was some important announcement to follow? Washington hung breathless.

The fact that Col. Harvey spent several days at the White House with President Coolidge when he resigned as Ambassador to England did not provoke nearly so much whispered guesswork as this latest short interview of his. The explanation of a chance visit, with a mere continuance of old friendly courtesies, was not allowed to suffice. Washington could see deeper beneath the surface than that. Col. Harvey could not have gone to the White House except upon some momentous political errand, and what this was Washington was determined to find out, even if it had to gossip itself blue in the face.

BRITAIN CAN BLOCK DAM CONSTRUCTION BY U. S. ENGINEERS

Abyssinian Representative in
New York Negotiations
Denies Contract.

COOLIDGE HAS NO VOICE,
PAPER IN LONDON SAYS
Sensation Created in Cairo and London by Blue Nile Region Project.

Liverpool, England, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The mystery which has attached to the reported negotiation of an agreement between an American engineering corporation and the Abyssinian government for the construction of a dam across the Blue Nile, which has stirred the Egyptian government and the British press, is all a "tempest in a teapot," declared Dr. Wargoneh Martin, Abyssinian representative at the negotiations who arrived here today aboard the steamship Laconia.

Dr. Martin, interviewed on landing, insisted that the Blue Nile dam project was for the British government itself, that no contract had been signed and that if the British government disapproved of it, "that's the end of the matter."

"There apparently has been a storm during my crossing," Dr. Martin said. "Up to date no contract has been signed with the J. G. White Corporation, of New York, and as far as I know no misunderstanding exists. The British government wants to control the Blue Nile by building a dam at Lake Tana. The matter has been under discussion for twenty years and British engineers have estimated the cost at $4,000,000."

Dam for British Government.
"A long time ago I was asked by the Abyssinian government to go to America to discuss with the matter with the White Corporation. While I was there, nothing was settled and no contract was signed. I am not going direct to the Foreign Office now although I may see Mr. Murray (John Murray, head of the Egyptian section of the Foreign Office) while passing through London en route to Abyssinia.

"You must understand that this dam is being done for the British government. We don't want it in Abyssinia. It is to supply water to the Sudan. If the British government is not satisfied it can drop the matter immediately. We are only anxious to meet the British government's wishes. I have been in America for two months looking for an efficient firm of engineers. If the British government approves, that's the end of the matter. Under the treaty, when the dam is built, the British government will pay for the water. It isn't a political matter. It is purely a commercial idea. If the British government is satisfied, building can start within a few months' time and would take about three years to complete."

Dr. Martin was emphatic in declaring that he only carried a proposition from the White Engineering Corporation and no signed contract. He said that he had advised the Washington State Department of the plan and had conferred with President Coolidge, but quite informally as a matter of courtesy.

He Made the Announcement.
New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Wargoneh Martin, who negotiated the agreement with J. G. White Engineering Corporation for the Blue Nile dam project, was the author of the only announcement concerning the matter. E. N. Chilson, vice president of the corporation, said today.

Mr. Chilson would not comment on Dr. Martin's statement in Liverpool and that the matter was ended if the British government disapproved.

"We had an agreement with Dr. Martin," Mr. Chilson said. "Of course, I do not understand his comment in Liverpool, and therefore can say nothing about it."

"The J. G. White Corporation did not make the announcement of the agreement. Dr. Martin did that before he sailed, as the papers of November 2 will show."

Dr. Alfred Yuttner, Dr. Martin's New York representative, who gave out an interview on November 2, giving details of the agreement, also was silent.

Not Up to Coolidge, Is View.
London, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Daily News today said behind the reported agreement of the Abyssinian government to grant an American firm the right to build a dam across the Blue Nile near Lake Tana an intention on the part of the Abyssinian government to administer a rebuff to the British government.

Breaking the silence which the London papers have maintained editorially toward the project, the Daily News termed it a "disturbing episode." It declared that the Abyssinians resisted for years the British proposal to build a dam on the ground that it might threaten independence, but now they possibly were prepared to run that risk for the purpose of administering a rebuff to British pretensions.

The Daily News declared: "Whether or not President Coolidge bestowed his blessing on the scheme, the issue does not rest with President Coolidge. It is an issue between Abyssinia and Great Britain."

The paper suggests that the matter be referred to the League of Nations since both Abyssinia and Great Britain are members of the league.

Cairo, Egypt, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Egyptian cabinet has decided to request the Egyptian Minister at Washington to furnish as soon as possible full particulars on the projected dam of the Blue Nile at the outlet of Lake Tana, a concession for which is reported to have been conceded to an American company by the Abyssinian government.

The cabinet also has communicated with the Egyptian representative in London regarding the situation which has created a sensation in Egypt.

U. S. Criticized in Rome.
Rome, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The reported intention of the J. G. White Engineering Corporation of New York to conclude a contract with Abyssinia to "build a dam diverting the channel of the Blue Nile, today brought caustic criticism from the Fascist paper L'Impero.

"American imperialism of the 'Deutschland' type," is the title with which L'Impero heads its article. "We feel entire solidarity with London against an inferior race which disavows its own pledges," the Fascist paper says with regard to the belief that Abyssinia would be breaking a treaty pledge by permitting the construction of a dam without the approval of Great Britain.

The newspaper deplores that American citizens should raise such an incident and calls "comic" the alleged Abyssinian intention of freeing herself from foreign interference through "the disinterested assistance of America, which is the most imperialistic nation of our time."

New York Birth Rate Shows Big Decrease

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Health Commissioner Harris is concerned because New York's birth rate is decreasing. Fifteen years ago the rate was 28 per 1,000, he said in a statement today, while last year the rate was 21. The commissioner attributes the cause to two factors: The entrance of the United States into the World War, which took men overseas and reacted upon their marriage, and the exclusion from this country of the foreign group, so prolific in the past.

"Ordinarily the prosperity of a country is reflected in a high birth rate," said Dr. Harris. "Here we are after a decade of general prosperity and the birth rate is going down. The typical American family is constantly becoming smaller."

LIBERALS IN LEAD AS U. S. AIDS NICARAGUA VOTERS

Polis Guarded by Marines,
Who Report Orderliness
Featured Election.

MUY MUY ATTACK SEEN

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—United States Marines and national guard patrols kept watch over the municipal elections held throughout Nicaragua Sunday. Col. Louis M. Gulick, commander of the Fifth Brigade, U. S. Marine Corps, said today that no disturbances were reported by the patrols, law and order prevailing throughout.

It will be several days before final results are announced, but the figures in some of the towns are interesting. In Managua the liberals scored heavily over the conservatives. On the recorded vote up to this afternoon the liberals had 3,259 and the conservatives 1,616. In Granada the vote stood conservatives 1,926, liberals 854.

At Leon, a liberal stronghold, the liberal vote was 2,600, the conservative vote 5. The conservatives are ahead by a few votes at Masaya, but at Matagalpa the liberals were four to one in the majority.

The government has received a report from the important town of Muy Muy that a band of 50 men is committing depredations in that vicinity and that the bandits notified the authorities that Muy Muy would be attacked some time today. American Marine airplanes were dispatched to ascertain conditions there.

Early unconfirmed election reports indicate that the liberals won the majority contest here and that the conservatives won in Granada, Masaya and other towns. Marines were on guard during the voting.

Very few disturbances were reported. The Nicaraguan municipal elections Sunday were generally looked upon as a test of the government's ability to administer the presidential election next year. Liberals have contended that their followers include 80 per cent of the country's population, and that the present conservative Diaz government was placed in power through force in violation of the constitution.

Observance of Founding at Temple.

Commemorating the 125th anniversary of its founding, Columbia Lodge, No. 3, F. A. A. M., opened a two-day celebration last night in Masonic Temple, Thirteenth street and New York avenue northwest, with a ladies' night entertainment. Members of the lodge and their guests will hold a "stag" banquet tonight in the Westman Park Hotel as the principal feature of the celebration.

The entertainment program was led by the Masonic Glee Club, under the direction of R. S. Thomas, and included a minstrel show, with J. Clark Middleton as interactor, Fred Madison, Frank Green, James Madison and William MacFarland as end men, Carl Mason, eccentric dancer, and William Bell, soloist. The committee in charge of the entertainment was composed of Albert Haas, chairman; R. M. Bedell and J. R. Bruce.

The lodge was chartered under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Maryland on November 8, 1802, and has a membership of more than 500. The officers are: Henry B. Milbrook, junior steward; Joseph M. Marzoli, secretary; Harry Wilson, treasurer; William K. Cohen, organist, and Robert Schaeffer, soloist.

ELECTION HELD TODAY IN VIRGINIA COUNTIES

Arlington-Fairfax and Alexandria Will Pass on Many Candidates.

Nearby counties of Virginia will go to the polls today to name county officers and representatives of the county in the State legislature, and to vote on constitutional amendment referendums and bond issues.

Principal interest centers in Arlington County, where Republicans are making a spirited campaign in the hope of wresting control of the county from the Democratic "courthouse ring."

Fairfax County will vote on much the same issues as the citizens of Arlington County, while in Alexandria City the voting will be confined to selecting a senator and member of the house of delegates, the same candidates being voted on as are on the ballot in Arlington County. Legislative elections will be held throughout the State.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad and gripe-producing effects of any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

MOSCOW PARADES IN BIG CELEBRATION AS FACTIONS CLASH

Trotsky Supporters Forced to Halt Demonstrations
Against Stalin Regime.

OBSERVANCE OF REDS
LASTS LATE INTO NIGHT

Open Fight Between Parties Is Held Inevitable in London.

Moscow, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Moscow's big parade in honor of the tenth anniversary of the revolution ended late tonight with seemingly interminable somewhat bound processions winding slowly through the streets in the crimson glow of innumerable lights to the city's widespread suburbs. Despite the ebbing parade, however, Moscow's main street and revolutionary square continued seething with dense crowds listening to speeches and radio concerts, while the wheels of traffic were at a complete standstill.

All the theaters and clubs gave gala performances and banquets for the workers, soldiers and peasants' organizations. The restaurants and stores, which had been closed all day, will remain closed tomorrow.

In the course of the day opposition factions indulged in small skirmishes at various points in the line of march. They attempted to address the demonstrators, but were howled down by loyal communists. Usually the incidents ended quickly without police interference.

Trotsky Forced to Detour.

At one point Leon Trotsky, former commissar of war and now opposed to the Stalin regime, riding in a carriage, attempted to pass a cordon of militiamen, but, not having the necessary passport, was held up and obliged to take a different route, his only reaction being slight irritation, betrayed by a somewhat bitter smile.

Protestants and other oppositionists, attempted to address the marching columns from the balcony of a hotel, but they were booed down and quickly retired. The same hostility greeted others carrying portraits of Trotsky who attempted to cross Red square, and they had to withdraw in consequence of the resentment of the demonstrators.

Premier Rykoff has gone to Leninград, where he reviewed another big parade, with the historic battleship Aurora participating in the celebration. The Aurora is anchored in the Neva, at the very spot where in October, 1917, it fired upon the Winter Palace, forcing the surrender of Kerensky's government.

Open Clash Forecast.

London, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The Westminster Gazette claims to have received from Russia information on the seriousness of the struggle between the followers of Joseph Stalin, Russia's "man of steel," and the followers of Leon Trotsky, former commissar of war.

Trotsky is said to be employing exactly the same tactics against the Stalin party which he, himself, and Lenin employed to bring about the fall of the czarist regime, and later the Kerensky government. The Trotsky party has a number of secret printing presses and has established "cells," not only in the civil and local bodies and factories, but in every regiment, for pushing its propaganda, and belief is expressed that an open fight is inevitable.

ILEANA OF ROUMANIA IS "PERFECT WOMAN"

One of Best Developed in Europe, Says State Head of Physical Culture.

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Princess Ileana, beautiful 18-year-old daughter of Queen Marie, of Roumania, has been pronounced by the director of the Roumanian state physical culture academy to be one of the most perfectly developed girls in Europe. He attributes her beauty of form and limb to constant gymnastics, swimming and outdoor sports. Her measurements approximate those of the physically perfect woman, he says.

The charming young princess whom so many American youths yearned to marry while she was in the United States is an ardent devotee of horseback riding, fencing, tennis, mountain climbing, skating and skiing. As president of the Girl Scouts of Roumania, she spends much of her time in camping, boating, swimming, and athletics. She is the fastest short-distance girl runner in Roumania.

Ileana drives her own motor car. But her greatest hobby is taking motion pictures with her amateur movie camera. She is now working on a scenario of her own, depicting palace life, which she will "dramatize" in home-made movies.

Alleged Crime School Teacher Is Arrested

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—The story of a school for burglary and gun play in which boys were taught by a modern Fagin known to them as a "prowl manager," was under police investigation today.

Four 15-year-old boys and the man they say taught them to rob and steal have been arrested. Matthew Cechan, 22, was the man the boys identified as their "director." Cechan took them on their first burglary, the boys said, taking from them their loot valued at $900, and later giving them money for their part. A check is being made in the hope the boys may have been responsible for several recent robberies in the northwest section.

6 FATAL 76 Non-Fatal ACCIDENTS

---that is Washington's casualty list last year attributed to bad brakes and defective steering gears in motor vehicles.

Is there any good reason for this? Since bad brakes and defective steering gears are the result of gross negligence, should the lives of innocent pedestrians and other motorists be jeopardized?

If your mother, father, brother or sister were to be killed or injured on account of these parts not being in proper working order, could you ever forgive the motorist who caused you this grief?

If you are the driver of a car, think of these things; examine your car immediately and if it requires attention in this direction, have it repaired. There is no reason for the existence of bad brakes and defective steering gears with the numerous Service Stations located in all sections of the city and thousands of competent mechanics available.

If bad brakes can cause injury and really bring death to people, let us become conscious of the fact and do our utmost to eliminate casualties arising from this cause.

We must consider the well-being of our fellow man and prevent accidents of this kind. The laws of safety demand it and we owe it to society to be careful.

Think it over.

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

THIS week we are considering, in connection with the information already published, situations which are of a more difficult character than those that usually arise. Two hands are given each day and the answers are published the next day.

YESTERDAY'S HANDS.

NO. 1 NO. 2

♠ A-K-X ♠ A-K-X
♥ K-X-X ♥ K-X-X
♦ K-X-X ♦ K-X-X
♣ Q-X-X ♣ Q-X-X

Both of these hands are held by North: South (Dealer) has passed, and West has bid one No Trump. What should North declare?

No. 1. North should pass. His hand contains five high cards likely to take tricks and is what would be called a borderline double in the most advantageous position. North is sitting over the player who has bid No Trump, which is the vantage position; but that player was not the Dealer. The Dealer (North's partner) has shown a hand not strong enough for an initial bid; it may be a bust. With a passing South and North's moderate strength, there is practically no chance of making game; but with North sitting over a No Trump, there is good chance of saving game. It is, therefore, a case for a pass and not a double.

No. 2. North should double. There are three differences between the two hands. Difference A is that No. 2 has high cards that probably will take tricks, whereas No. 1 has only five. Six is considered the requisite for a double in this position. Difference B is that No. 2 is much stronger in the Majors, being especially strong in Spades; whereas No. 1 has more moderate Spade strength. No. 2 has four Hearts, whereas No. 1 has but three. No. 2 offers a reasonable chance for a Major game if South have length in either Major; No. 1 offers little such probability. Difference C is that No. 2 contains two Tens, both in combinations with which they are apt to be useful; No. 1 contains no Tens.

Today's hands are held by East: South (Dealer) has bid one No Trump, and West has passed, and the question is: What should East declare?

WRC WILL BROADCAST BRIDGE GAME TONIGHT

Contest of Experts on Auction to Be Described Play
by Play.

WATSON WMAL SPEAKER

The second of a series of twenty radio auction bridge games will be broadcast at 10 o'clock tonight from WRC. Each game of the series features Milton C. Work and Wilbur C. Whitehead, New York experts, in association with players from cities throughout America and Canada. The listeners-in are requested to have four players ready with cards and to follow the game bid by bid and play by play as broadcast over WRC.

The contestants in the game tonight are H. P. Jagger, of Cleveland, Ohio, president of the Cleveland Whist Club; Carl T. Robertson, of Cleveland, one of the most prominent players in the middle West; and Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead, widely known as teachers, writers and experts on the game.

The hands:
Jagger, South—Spades, 7, 2; Hearts, 8, 2; Diamonds, A, K, 10, 4, 3; Clubs, K, J, 9, 7.
Whitehead, West—Spades, A, 9, 8, 4; Hearts, K, J, 10, 4, 3; Diamonds, 7, 2; Clubs, 5, 3.

Robertson, North—Spades, K, Q, 10, 8; Hearts, A, K, 9; Diamonds, Q, J, 6; Clubs, A, Q, 2.

Whitehead, East—Spades, J, 6, 5; Hearts, 7, 6, 5; Diamonds, 9, 8, 6; Clubs, 10, 8, 6, 4.

Gertrude Ederle will be featured from station WMAL tonight at 10:30 o'clock, when the WMAL Radio Movie Club is broadcast. In addition there will be the "Intimate Chats on the History of Motion Pictures" by Colby Harriman. The Villa Roma Club Entertainers will be on the air at 7 o'clock, followed by Jack Harris, of Philadelphia, in popular songs.

"Taxation" will be the subject of an address by Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, at 8:15 o'clock. Senator Watson is chairman of the committee on interstate commerce.

The Eveready Hour tonight is designated as "A Night of Melody," with offerings by the Eveready Revelers, the Eveready Orchestra, with Nathaniel Shilkret conducting, and Virginia Rea, soprano.

A feature of the entertainment will be the revival of an old classic when Wilfred Glenn, of the Revelers, recites "The Face On the Barroom Floor." Also the Revelers will again sing "Ole."

Henry Flak Carlton has taken an important event during the Civil War as the incident to be presented in "Great Moments in History" at 8 o'clock. "The Trent Affair," which involved the agents, Mason and Slidell, occurred early in November, 1861. The story relates how those Southern agents were taken from the Trent and the situation which ensued.

The Sealy Air Weavers' program will be broadcast at 8:30 o'clock. The Radio Cavalcade will be on the air from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock.

An organ recital by Otto F. Beck will open the noonday broadcast, followed by the Hotel Mayflower Orchestra. Roxanna Erb, contralto, and Christine Church, soprano, will be heard in duets at 4 o'clock, then the Dixie Banjo Boys will entertain for fifteen minutes. The Manhattan Trio and the Blue Hills Plantation Orchestra will round out this portion of the program.

All local singers who wish to be heard in the Atwater Kent Foundation auditions should file their applications with the committee by tomorrow night, as applications received after that time will not be considered.

A varied program will be presented in the Stromberg-Carlson Hour from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock.

BALDWIN FACES FIGHTS AS PARLIAMENT MEETS

Parties Begin Maneuvering for Next General Election in 1928 or 1929.

SIX MAIN ISSUES ARE UP

London, Nov. 7 (A. P.).—The British Parliament convenes at Westminster tomorrow for a short session, which promises one of the sharpest legislative battles in the career of the Baldwin government.

Disarmament, votes for "flappers," reform of the house of lords, government economy, "the dole" and British movies all are issues of great domestic interest upon which debate will rage in the house of commons.

Anticipating dissolution in 1928 or 1929 at the latest,

STOCKS MOVE FORWARD IN EARLY TRADING BUT LACK AGGRESSIVENESS.

FEW WEAK SPOTS IN LIST

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 7.—Mainly under the stimulus of the favorable interpretation placed on the Treasury's new financing program, stocks moved higher for the most part today, but the market lacked aggressiveness until the final hour, when a really good wave developed. As a consequence prices at the close showed net appreciations in scores of instances ranging from 2 to 15 points. The turnover was large, topping the 2,000,000 share mark.

Railroad shares were well bought most of the day on the theory that many of them are undervalued. Opportunities, but indications were that the trading public is adverse to climbing the railroad shares, which are generally overvalued, and expects the results of the General Motors dividend meeting on Thursday to inject new vitality into the market.

With the exception of a number of industrial mergers understood to be in the making, the declaration of an ex-dividend on the premier automobile stock is about the only activity scheduled for the near future which can be used as a basis upon which to bring about an upward movement.

There were a few weak spots uncovered during the session, among them United Drug, International Match preferred, or proceeding taking selling.

Following last week's hectic rise, Canada Dry, American Can, Loew, Inc., Loew-Wiles, Marland Oil, Radio, and Cero de Pisco Copper, Bismarck, and Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh dropped sharply on a few transactions, the last named for a 7 1/2 point loss.

With an election-day holiday due tomorrow, the continuation of the recovery was inspiring in the face of some evening up of accounts that caused momentary recessions in many instances.

Six new lows were scored by American Piano, Cuban Dominican Sugar, American Type Foundry, Kresge preferred, Havana Electric preferred and Long Bell Lumber.

Speculators were continuing to wait a waiting attitude, but the market moved ahead with its readjustment, trading reflecting largely professional operations.

The early bulge was directly attributed to general approval of the Treasury's new financing plan, the 3 1/2 interest rate having occasioned some surprise in banking circles, where it was thought the rate might have been as low as 3 percent. With the Treasury issue out of the way, Wall Street observers looked for a continuance of the favorable money market conditions and as a result evidence of pool operations in specialties came to light.

Aside from Federal Mining and Smelting, which closed 15 points net higher, Houston Oil was the outstanding gainer on the day, among active issues, registering 10 1/2 points net higher and within a fraction of the best price of the season. International Harvester rose 9 points, 8 1/2 of which was held. Warner Bros. was among the 28 stocks attaining new high levels, and closed about the old top, 9 1/4 points net higher.

Advances of 4 to 6 points were showing at the finish in a considerable list of stocks, including American Smelting, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Jase Threshing, International Business Machine, Kelly Springfield 8 per cent preferred, Fidelity Phoenix Fire Insurance, and Commercial Solvents. Continental Insurance closed 7 1/2 points above Saturday's final quotation and numerous bank stocks, topped by National Park Bank, with a 20 point jump, showed substantial gains.

Goldmines, soaring again to new summits, 14 1/2 cents above gold parity, marked for a new high, but the decline in Sterling was up a shade but most other currencies were slightly lower, and pesos reacted 7 points.

NEW YORK GRAIN.

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—WHEAT—Spot, firm; No. 1 hard Northern spring, c. 1 1/2; New York, lake and rail, 1 1/2; No. 2 hard winter, c. 1 1/2; No. 2 mixed durum, do, 1 1/2; No. 2 Minnesota, do, to arrive, 1 1/2; No. 2 yellow, c. 1 1/2; No. 2 yellow, do, 1 1/2; No. 2 white, c. 1 1/2; No. 2 white, do, 1 1/2.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Wheat developed an upward tendency today, stimulated by reports of frost in Argentina and by smallness of the United States wheat supply increase. Corn displayed marked strength owing largely to a forecast of rain or snow throughout the corn belt.

Closing quotations on what were nervous at the same as Saturday's final top, the higher, with corn 1/2 to 3/4 up, oats showing 1/2 to 3/4 advance and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Late returns in wheat values were mainly a response to the fact that the domestic visible supply total exhibited an increase of only 394,000 bushels, an amount far less than generally had been looked for. Heavy snow reported as having fallen in Alberta, Canada, where considerable wheat is still unthreshed, was also a bullish influence. Earlier, though the incentive to buy, came from complaints of rust in Santa Fe Province, Argentina, and of light frost last night over section of the western Argentine wheat belt.

According to advices current in Chicago the prevailing weather conditions throughout Argentina are too cold for proper development of the wheat crop. Besides, it was asserted, damage from the frost of October 31 is appearing. On the other hand, fresh export buying of North American wheat today was estimated at not to exceed 400,000 bushels, whereas the supply of wheat on ocean passage increased 2,928,000 bushels, making the total 3,328,000 bushels, compared with 38,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Speculative buyers in the corn market found a dearth of future delivery offerings until the May price had risen to around 92 cents, at that point profit taking set in. Aside from a forecast of unfavorable weather, there was a better Eastern cash demand, with talk current that New England States had become active purchasers of corn at New York available for immediate use. Oats averaged higher with corn.

Provisions were responsive to an upturn in hog values.

LEAD IN UPWARD SWING

General Market Moderately Active on Eve of Election Holiday.

FRENCH LOANS IN DEMAND

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.)—A number of features in the current news created more than ordinary interest in the bond market today. Activity was of moderate proportions, however, many traders preferring to limit their commitments over election day, a legal holiday in New York State. Easy money and satisfaction with the Government's plans for its November 15 prices contributed to firm prices.

French issues were in heavy demand following announcement of the plan to refund the outstanding 8 per cent bonds. The $50,000,000 issue of International Match Corporation $5, issued this morning, the German Central Agricultural Bank $5, and the Swedish match Co. $5, were reported promptly oversubscribed. The new French issue will aggregate $75,000,000, the Swedish corporation retaining $25,000,000 in its treasury. Listed French $5's and some of the municipal obligations changed hands briskly, the first named selling at 116 for the first time this year.

German securities, on the other hand, were heavy in consequence of outspoken remarks by S. Parker G'bert, reparations agent, that Germany would not pay a cent of the reparations. The German Central Agricultural Bank $5 sank to a new low at 94 1/2.

Railway loans again led the domestic group, new peaks being attained by Great Northern $5's, Katy $5's, New Haven $5's and Northern Pacific $5's. International Paper Convertible $5's touched 108 1/2, year's high. Goodrich issues were unaffected by announced plans to retire half the outstanding $15,000,000 6 per cent notes on December 15, presumably at the call figure of 100 1/2.

Long term Treasury obligations eased off slightly following announcement of the Government's plan to issue $400,000,000 in 3 1/2 per cent certificates. The rate was about what had been expected in financial circles. Third and Fourth Liberty Bonds were active and steady.

NEW MANAGERS NAMED FOR CARDINALS AND PHILS

East Elevens Prepare for Old Rivals

Yale and Princeton Go Through Light Drill for Contest.

Dartmouth Primes for Cornell; Penn to Play Columbia.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (A.P.)—Gathering momentum slowly, one of the "big weeks" of the East's waning pickup campaign got under way today with a counting of noses—some of them broken—and light but diverting workouts to fit gridiron gladiators for punishing work ahead.

Gil Doble found one of the fractured nasal organs adorning Katz, a star tackle, as he gathered his forces for a scathing lecture on their shortcomings last Saturday, when they St. Bonaventure held the big red machine to a tie. Dartmouth, the Cornell opposition this Saturday, found members of a strenuous trip through flood regions to the Brown game so poignant, that time out was taken for the day and minds were diverted further with a dinner in Lebanon tonight.

Yale and Princeton, meeting in the fifty-second of their time-honored battles Saturday, engaged only in light exercise to start preparations for a battle involving two of the East's most powerful elevens.

Bill Roper, who is coming up for reelection as councilman in Philadelphia tomorrow, hurried all visitors from the field as his squad worked lightly. Both the Tiger and Bull Dog are singularly free from injuries.

While the Harvard varsity came under the lash for defeat at Penn, Coach Arnold Horween demonstrated the type of play he wishes against Brown Saturday by personally stepping out tackle for a 40-yard score in the course of a scrimmage between Team C and the Scrubs. The varsity, which has had trouble promoting runs of that sort, looked on with interest.

Penn has settled one worry that stretched through the entire season by nominating Johnny Shober for the quarter back berth, not only against Columbia Saturday, but for the remainder of the season. A sprint around the field was all the work Penn needed.

Columbia came in for one of the tongue lashings so frequent along the Atlantic seaboard today for being held to a 7-to-7 tie by Johns Hopkins Saturday. The Lions entertain Penn Saturday.

"Navy Bill" Ingram, head coach at Navy, came back from scouting Michigan to tell his varsity that the Western line is weaker this year than last, but the back field is much stronger, even without the services of Benny Friedman.

Syracuse started work for Colgate indoors when snow covered the gridiron. The Violets of New York University listened only to an outline of the attack to be employed against Penn Saturday.

BROWN STAR AT FULL BACK. Brown, formerly a tackle with the Brooklyn A. C., has been starting of late as a full back. He has proved a consistent ground gainer.

George Washington Eleven Finds Success Under Crum

Princeton Star Turns Out Winning Team Under Handicaps.

Team Has Won 24 of 32 Games Played in Last 4 Seasons.

IN downtown Washington where the hum of traffic and the bustle of commerce removed all thoughts of the gridiron, a football transformation has taken place that has won for George Washington University a secure position among the leading college football teams of this section.

From the departments scattered in many quarters of the business district, lacking the infectious spirit of the college campus, a football team has been molded for George Washington that patiently but certainly has asserted itself as a powerful team, awakening an interest in the University's athletics that has been dormant for many years.

Under the guiding hand of Coach Harry Watson Crum, George Washington's football team has earned gridiron prestige under difficulties with which few other teams have been confronted.

In the four seasons preceding Coach Crum's assumption of football duties at George Washington, the Colonial football team won 7 out of 30 games played. In the four seasons that Crum has been head coach, George Washington has met stern opposition and won 24 out of 32 games played. This season, until the 13-0 defeat at the hands of

At no time during the season has Coach Crum had available more than seventeen football players for active duty. Unlike the program of most

3 Jockeys to Aid Sande Before Commission Today

Maryland Commission to Hear Story of Noted Rider Supported by Rivals; Ban Holds in New York, Says Widener.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (A.P.)—The Maryland Racing Commission, which revoked the license of Jockey Earl Sande for committing an alleged foul in the Pimlico Futurity today, will give the noted rider a hearing today by James A. Latane, chairman, following receipt of a written request from Sande that he be given an opportunity to state his case.

Sande has been reluctant to discuss his disbarment, which prevents him from riding or serving as a trainer on any North American track until he stands before the commissioners. He will introduce three witnesses in his behalf, understood to be jockeys who rode in the classic.

Sande's fate is alleged to have cut in front of Reigh County, the favorite, forcing him against the rail and ruining his stride when both were leading at the home stretch. Names of the witnesses were not divulged.

Latane declared Sande had not been "railroaded," that his act was witnessed by two members of the commission.

Eastern, which has likewise gained many players, showed a complete reversal of form last Tuesday, defeating Business, 14-6. The victory was a complete reversal of Eastern's last season, when it lost to Business, 14-6. In that game, Munro gave one of the best individual defensive exhibitions of the season, and the team a continual menace to the opposing kicker and passer and once in the last quarter of the Business game, broke through to block May at kick behind the goal line for a safety.

Montague, one of Coach Guyon's best line men, will start the game today at left guard and Pyles has been shifted from guard to a half back position. In the back field, Miller, who exhibited some flashy running in the Business game, at the center half, and Capt. Hollander at full back.

Hoffman, who was piloting the team for the first time in the Business game, should be a steady starter. Hoffman, who threw the laveling, will be relied upon to throw passes for Eastern, if the team elects to play a passing game. Western played much the same style of game, relying upon straight line plunging as their chief offensive weapon. With a close formation, Western gained considerable ground against Tech by hammering the line and did not resort to passing until the game was almost over. Eastern has used the same plan of attack in its games, but both teams may open with a little aerial work today. The line-up:

600,000 Crave to See Army-Navy Grid Tilt

New York, Nov. 7 (A.P.)—Although the Army-Navy football classic, scheduled this year at the Polo Grounds, nearly three weeks off, there have been about ten applications for every available ticket. This was indicated today by the mass of applications received at the offices of the New York Giants.

Approximately 75,000 seats are to be available for the game, a record for New York, but it is estimated that 600,000 applications have been made for them through all sources.

The bulk of the tickets are disposed of through the rival service academies or the Army and Navy Association. A close approximation to a dead heat was seen in the finish of the fifth race at Pimlico yesterday when J. E. Davis' Polish was the winner by the scantest of margins over Knapsack in a stretch duel.

PROSECUTOR OPPOSES FIGHT

Rematching of Dundee-Hudkins Is Disapproved.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7 (A.P.)—Promised drastic action by the city prosecutor in connection with the Dundee-Hudkins fight fiasco was postponed today while members of the State Athletic Commission were held to the investigation's carpet to explain certain phases of the "no-contest" title bout.

Dr. E. J. Lickley, the prosecutor, after questioning Seth W. P. Strelinger, of the commission, announced he would delay action to question closely the two other commissioners, Charles Traugott, of San Francisco, and Louis Almgren, of San Diego.

The prosecutor announced last week that if the commissioners could not answer questions concerning the $60,000 guarantee by Promoter Donald and other matters, he would make the State officials parties to a "gigantic fight fraud." Dr. Lickley said he would make a full report to Gov. C. C. Young.

Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion, declined to enter the fight, which was scheduled for November 14, because Promoter Donald was not prepared to pay him $100,000 in advance.

Before Strelinger went to Dr. Lickley's office, Dundee, his manager, Max Waxman, and Donald all pleaded not guilty to a charge of false advertising and had their trials by jury set for December 2.

A proposal to stage the fight here November 21 met with the statement from Dr. Lickley that his office would not permit a fight to be staged here. "I am unalterably opposed to any attempt to hold a prize fight between Dundee and Hudkins," he said.

The decision to attempt restaging of the title bout on the deferred date was arrived at yesterday in a conference in which Strelinger, Dundee, Waxman and Donald participated.

Bob O'Farrell Replaced by McKechnie

Shotton, of Syracuse, Relieves McInnis at Philadelphia.

1926 Pilot of Cards Praised and Given Raise in Pay.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (A.P.)—National League teams will have at least three new pilots for the 1928 pennant race.

This was assumed today when two shifts were announced almost simultaneously, one resulting in the selection of Bill McKechnie to succeed Bob O'Farrell as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the other sending But Shotton to replace "Stuffy" McInnis at the helm of the Phillies. The Boston vacancy, created by the departure of Dave Bancroft to Brooklyn, was filled recently by the appointment of Jack Slatery, Boston College coach.

McKechnie was a Cardinal coach last season and takes over full managerial responsibilities with the hearty approval of the man he succeeds. O'Farrell never has entertained managerial ambitions and succeeded Rogers Hornsby, it is understood, only at the urgent request of President Sam Breadon.

The latter now is convinced, however, that to spoil a great catcher like O'Farrell is an expensive way of obtaining a manager. Given a $5,000 salary increase, O'Farrell will be free to attend to his backstopping next year.

It is a comeback for McKechnie, who led Pittsburgh to a pennant and world's championship in 1925, but was released at the close of the 1926 season after disension had cropped out in the Pirates ranks and spoiled their prospects.

Shotton steps into the major league managerial spotlight from the "A. A." minor league ranks, just as Joe McCarthy, Donie Bush and Dan Howley have in recent seasons. He has played the "big time" outfield for Washington, the Browns and Cardinals, but managing the Syracuse International last season, converting them from a second division outfit to a pennant contender and finishing in second place.

McInnis, who has been with six major league clubs at one time or another, was released unconditionally by the Phillies.

Chisox' $65,000 Bid For Outman Refused

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 7 (A.P.)—Tom Turner, president of the Portland Seaboard club, announced today that he had refused a $65,000 bid for Fred Outman, 20-year-old left-handed pitcher star. The offer came from the Chicago White Sox, who last week purchased Chalmers Cissell, 20-year-old shortstop, from the Portland team for $100,000 and two players.

Turner said that Outman would not be placed on the market until next year, although six major clubs have bid for his services.

Walker on $500 Bond On Assault Charges

Red Bank, N. J., Nov. 7 (A.P.)—Edward Walker, otherwise known as Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion of the world, was held in $500 bond today on a charge of assault battery preferred by Walter Reade, middle-aged and wealthy owner of a chain of movie theaters on the north Jersey coast.

An altercation occurred in Reade's office, it was said, over the possibility of Walker's obtaining a lease on a projected $2,000,000 theater and amusement park in Asbury Park. Reade and Walker disagreed as to who struck the first blow. Reade's forehead was bruised. Walker was hailed before a justice of the peace.

G. U. FAVORED TO WIN AT BOSTON

Coach Little to Drill His Team Hard for Battle at Hub.

GEORGETOWN, leading point-scorer of the Eastern football world, early which boosted its total to 292 points by the decisive 27-2 victory over the battered Lafayette team, may confront unexpected opposition in its regional play of the Hilltop.

By Fordham, both on foreign fields. By virtue of the past performances of the rival teams, the Hilltoppers will be heavy favorites to win, but by no means are they assured of victory.

Boston College's 13-7 defeat at the hands of Villanova was not a distinctly big upset, which seems to be the general opinion, but rather the strength of Villanova was underestimated.

From a squad of 50 players, Coach Harry Struhliedner, former Notre Dame star, has developed an eleven capable of giving any team in the East a real battle.

Conspicuous in Georgetown's easy triumph over the weight-laden Maroon team was the aggressive and all-round play of the Hilltop line, a credit to Lou Little's coaching system, and to the efforts of John DeGross, line coach.

Nevertheless, despite the evidently flawless play of the forwards, the coaches occupied the better part of an hour of yesterday's practice in correcting the faults of Saturday's game.

The squad, with the exception of a few minor bruises, came out of the Lafayette fray in fine shape. Practice yesterday was confined merely to light exercise, consisting mostly of passing and kicking drills.

Emerson Basketers Schedule 15 Games

Emerson Institute unofficially ushered in their basketball season yesterday when seven enthusiasts held a preliminary practice at the American University gymnasium. Although a little early to make any predictions, Coach Sanborn states that a well-balanced team will be put on the courts.

A squad of twenty have signified their intention to play basketball this year, and out of this number the team will be picked. Among the last year's men are Shugrue, Meade, Delaney, Price, Gordon, Trew and Asserson.

A heavy schedule has already been arranged, and it includes many formidable opponents. The list is as follows:

December 5, Tech; 7, Business; 20, Central; January 11, St. John's; 16, Charlotte Hall (road); 17, Eastern; 18, Georgetown Prep; 16, DeWitt; 18, Tech; 20, Gonzaga; 31, St. Ann's; February 1, St. John's; 2, Washington; 3, Washington; 4, Woodberry Forest; 4, DeWitt; 10, Charlotte Hall (home); 17, McGuire School of Richmond; 21, Georgetown Prep; 25, Gonzaga.

NOTICE, HARTFORDS.

The Hartforders will hold their first meeting at Capt. Ray Hager's house, 7527 Sixth street northwest, at 7:30 tonight. The Hartforders will try to keep up with their old winning stride as of last year. Capt. Hager will ask the following members to report: Guy Ferguson, Mike Panella, Tony Panella, Frank Ford, and Henry Reid. Games will be arranged later.

Kasehagen, D. C. Shot, Labeled by Magazine

A recent issue of the American Rifleman pays tribute to the National Capital Rifle Club sharpshooters, who established a new world's record score of 387 in winning the Remington trophy in the interclub long range match at Camp Perry, Ohio, this summer.

Leo Kasehagen, former captain of the Central High School team and at present a sophomore at Carnegie Tech, third one of the quartet, made a perfect score. Kasehagen also was one of 20 picked from a field of 175, who tied for third place in the International Dewar match, America regaining this Sir Thomas Dewar challenge cup when its team made a phenomenal score of 7,807.

The former Central captain made a score of 99 in the 1,000 yard Wimbledon cup match and, as a member of the D. C. Civilian rifle team, won several other medals.

WINTONS PRACTICE.

The Winton A. C. will hold a practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Virginia Avenue playgrounds. The Wintons play St. Stephen's Sunday at Fairlawn Field.

Maiben Costs Salmon Colt $10,000

Jockey Tardy in His Move, Losing by Half Length.

Irish Jig Beats Out Kangaroo by Head Over Jumps.

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 7.—Edith Cavell, racing for Walter M. Jeffords, was winner of the $10,000 added Bowls Handicap of the Maryland Jockey Club this afternoon. Making all the pace for the trying mile and a half journey she led home Walter J. Salmon's Display and E. P. Cony's Dolan, a fast-going third before the lightly weighted Peter Peter from the Green-Ten Stable. The prize had a value of $8,525 to the winner, and Eddie Barnes rode the winner with excellent judgment.

There was a touch of winter in the air, but a big crowd was out for the running. The betting for the big event was interesting and sport of a character that kept the patrons well entertained.

There was a considerable delay at the post before Milton could find an alignment to his liking, but the start was a good one, and while Display was off nicely in his stride, Maiben at once took back, while Barnes stole out with Edith Cavell, the pace being changed with the Jeffords filly, and they were soon well out before Gaffman.

Then Dolan, Peter Peter, Filippant and Display. This was the order they raced when the field was nicely under way, and Maiben, in easing Display back and saving to the inside and was saving ground on the rail.

It did not take Edith Cavell long to shake off Gaffman, and she drew out to a lead of four lengths down the back stretch without much exertion, as she was galloping along well within herself. Maiben all this time was waiting unreasonably with Display, though approaching the turn out of the back stretch he began to move up, but he had to go to the outside to find clear racing room. Gaffman was still hanging to second place and Gaffman was hanging to second place and Gaffman was hanging to second place.

At the head of the stretch Edith Cavell was still well clear of her field, but by that time Display had circled around to close a considerable gap and he was going well.

But Edith Cavell had power in reserve and as the colt charged Barnes shook her up and she responded gamely. In the meantime Dolan was following Display and was one by one he was picking up the others until it was apparent that he would be in at the death.

Through the last furling Maiben rode with hands and heels and Display continued to close, but Maiben held on too long and Edith Cavell was too game with the result that she was still a half length to the good at the end, while Dolan was a length and a half further away and it was Peter Peter that beat the others. Gaffman, Filippant and Gaffman all stopped badly and the performance of Gaffman was in marked contrast to his recent effort when he was winner over Dolan.

A Canadian victory came out of the running of the Towson stephens over the short course, when Irish Jig, from the Queen City stable, was well ridden by "Spec" Crawford, led home by E. P. Cony, and was followed by Joseph E. Davis' Endicott saving third from K. R. Marshall's Winona and McHassan's General Mitchell II. The others in the field came to grief. Tribute fell at the fifth fence and America II unseated Roach at the same fence. Then Irish Jig along well back of them, but always within striking distance. This order was pretty well maintained for the turn in the field and General Mitchell II was the first to drop back, while Endicott and Kangaroo continued to race along well lapped.

Then after America II had unseated Roach he cut across the field and crossed Irish Jig rather dangerously, but Crawford saw the danger and an accident was averted.

At the last turn of the course Irish Jig was still well back of the first two, but Crawford patiently bided his time, and when he called on the Canadian fencer he gradually came within striking distance, and to the last fence he was close to the last fence well lapped on Kangaroo. From there on it was a hard drive, but Irish Jig was to be the winner by a head, and the Trumman jumper was a length and a half before Endicott, with the others beaten off.

Of the fourteen maiden fillies that tried for conclusions over the intermediate five and one-half furlongs of the second number, the winner came from unexpected quarters when Ancho, carrying the silks of W. J. Salmon, scored in a hard drive over William Zeigler's Helmitia, who dominated the running from the start only to fall when within sight of the finish mark. Third portion of the purse went to Casandra when she outstayed J. S. Codden's Pretense for the minor division.

Sweepstake, a well-fancied one for the short sprint, flattered for a brief period when she forced the pace for the first three furlongs, and then backed up to finish in the rack.

The third number, a sprint over the three-quarter route for sprinters of the intermediate grade, produced a field of eleven to supply the contention, and a hard-fought race, with the pace of the running and for which Loungers for S. Louis, carried off the main prize when he was first to cross the winning mark, having marginally beaten the former colt the place share and Flower Girl, coming from next to last position, was just a half length back of the first two at the end.

Here was really the best showing of any of the starters, as she broke very slow and, only having one horse beat down the back stretch, she came like a streak through the final stage, and she was the winner by a head and a half. The Woodberry Handicap, the third best offering of the day, brought out a smart lot of route performers to vie for honors over the mile and 70 yard journey, and the winner turned up in J. E. Griffith's good campaigner Center when he came from behind the pace set by Marcha Milaire and Rolly Boyce and wearing the latter two down, assumed the lead inside the last furlongs to score by a half length. Rolly Boyce saved the place share of the spoils and was burn just managed to break into the money by getting a nose decision over Extremity.

The latter was the medium of a poor ride by D. Mergier, and this attributed to his being unplaced. Mergier rode a very indifferent sort of a race when Rolly Boyce sprang his mount into a position going to the first turn and then for no apparent reason took his mount back to fifth place when settled on the back stretch to come wide the remainder of the trip.

PIMLICO NOTES

(Special to The Washington Post.)

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 7.—At the conclusion of the Maryland fall meeting, Clyde Phillips will leave for New Orleans with 26 of the Green-Ten stable horses. Among them will be such useful ones as Saxon, Adios, Peter Peter, Navigator, Tip-Top and All Colours.

The report that Phillips had severed his connection with the Green-Ten stable was unauthorized. As a matter of fact the stable will be in the East and the other in the West. Tommy Murphy will train the Eastern division, while Phillips will look after those that will be read at the Chicago track.

During the past season young Phillips was six stakes with the seventeen 2-year-olds he trained and the stable, both last year and this, earned something in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Jimmy Butwell has severed his connection with the Edward F. Whitney stable. He has arranged to go to New Orleans and ride the horses that the Flamingo Farm stable will race at Jefferson Park and the Fair Grounds meetings.

The Bedwell Stable is having a bit of ill luck. La Morie was taken down with a slight attack of fever the other day and the stable will be out of his race Saturday morning.

George Phillips left for Birmingham, N. Y., Saturday night, to try out the best of his stable that his employer, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, has at his farm. Part of the Kilmer stable is still at Laurel and part at Pimlico. The entire band will be shipped to Aiken, S. C., at the conclusion of the Maryland meetings to go into winter quarters.

Ned Ewing, of the Maryland Bloodstock Agency, is arranging a sale of horses in training which will be held some day this week. Letters have been received from the master of hounds of many of the hunt clubs in Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland seeking information regarding the big sale of hunters, which will be held in the new arena of the Bloodstock Agency next spring. This sale will be in conjunction with a horse show. Stabling for over 100 horses is being provided for this occasion.

B. S. Michael, trainer of Reigh County, is anxious to have Pimlico recognize his stable as a training center. He has asked permission of his employer, Mr. Hertz, to start the colt in the Walden, to be run on Friday next. He has the colt in the Walden, to be run on Friday next. MARYLAND SEES VICTORY IN GAME WITH VIRGINIA

Byrd to Have Best Team On Field

Kessler, Snyder and Thomas Now in Good Shape.

Old Liners Reported in Fine Physical Condition.

MARYLAND'S varsity football team, having come out of the game with Yale in good trim, now will play the annual battle with Virginia at Charlottesville on Saturday. The Old Liners see in the Virginia contest a fine chance to make up some lost ground, as the Cavaliers last Saturday defeated Washington and Lee, 13 to 7, while the Generals the week before had won from Maryland, 13 to 6. However, Kessler, quarter back, and Snyder, half back, who were kept out of the clash with Washington and Lee, and Thomas, ace of the Old Line backs, who was hurt in the first play of the second half in the game with the Generals, will be ready to give their best efforts at Charlottesville, and this makes the outlook brighter for the Old Liners.

There will be little, if any, rough work at College Park this week. The Old Line players are on edge, and about all the drilling they will do is on plays, old and new, and on fundamentals and the finer points of the game.

Although Coach Curley Byrd of Maryland has made no mention of the matter, the Old Line players said that they are sure they would have given Yale much more of a battle had it not been for the non-scouting agreement that prevented Coach Byrd from getting a line on the Ells.

They said that while, of course, Yale's first team was superior to the reserves who played the scoreless second half with Maryland, with the latter having the edge, if anything, the Old Liners improved showing was due more to Byrd's telling them how to stop the Ells plays than to any vast inferiority of the Bulldogs second team as compared to the "big eleven."

They pointed to the fact that included in the reserve combination was Garvey, the back who ran wild against Dartmouth, doing much better work against the Green than the famous Caldwell.

One of the pleasing points of Maryland's play against Yale was the punting, Kessler and Roberts averaging 41 yards on 12 punts, and the way in which the Old Line ends covered the punts, the Ells seldom making good runs back.

NOTICE, CENTRAL REDS.

Due to an error, Twin Oaks are forced to cancel their game with the Central Reds, scheduled for Friday night.

NOTRE DAME PREPS WIN.

The Notre Dame Preps defeated the Fussell-Young Eleven by a score of 21 to 0. The game was played on the Georgetown Prep Field. Fields, Smoak and Hoffer starred for the winners.

Virginia Favored to Win; Overconfidence Feared

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 7.—Virginia will enter the game with Maryland next Saturday pitted as a winner for the first time this season by those editorial experts who spend most of the week filling up the dope bucket in order that it may be kicked over on the final day of play.

Coach Earle Neale knows the danger that can come to a team because it feels that it can win, and this afternoon he started the first workout of the week by cautioning his charges against taking too seriously the newspaper comments that they read.

Maryland's squad is regarded by the Virginia coaches as the best assorted group of football players in the South Atlantic States. In some games the Old Liners have failed to reach their stride, but there is little hope of them being of form here next Saturday when they will have the support of their entire student body.

Woodside Basketers Scrimmage Tonight

Woodside M. B. Basketers will scrimmage the Silver Spring National Guards tonight at the Silver Spring Armory at 7:30 o'clock.

The Woodside are now ready to schedule leading senior or unlimited teams. Call Manager Beinfeld at Silver Spring 145-R after 6 o'clock.

Potomac Boat Club In Meeting Tonight

A meeting of the Potomac Boat Club Basketball Team will be held in the board room of the clubhouse tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Many items of importance will be discussed, including the forming of an eligibility list, to be sent in with an application for membership in the Armory League, which will start about November 27.

The Potomacs have been working out vigorously the past month and are concentrating upon wrestling the Nautical League crown from the Old Dominion Boat Club, who took the championship from them last year after a series of hard-fought games.

Collegian Team Play Langley in Tie Game

Collegian and Langley eleven battled to a 0-to-0 tie game in a well played contest. The defensive play of the Collegians played a prominent part in checking the advances of the heavier Langley eleven. The Collegians will practice tonight at Sixth and A streets northeast, at 6 o'clock.

Position. Collegians. John Brull Cornell. Fred Ferguson B. Madden. R. G. G. Amidon. Warts R. T. Kenney. Cleary R. E. Q. Grist. Phillips Q. B. D. Grist. Brown R. H. L. Gladden. Worgan F. H. Bennett.

Substitutions—Coaches for Fred, Risler for Cornell, May for Amidon. Gains—Brown, 20 yards; Gladden, 40 yards; 30 yards, 10 yards; Grist, 30 yards; Brown, 20 yards, 20 yards; Brown, 20 yards, 15 yards.

PRACTICE FOR FUSSELL-YOUNGS.

The Fussell-Young Preps will hold a signal drill at the Fussell-Young factory under lights at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Members of the team and any new candidates are requested to report.

CORINTHIANS WOULD PLAY

Corinthian teams are on the lookout for basketball games. The insects seek action with 100-105-pound fives and that 85-pounds want games with teams in their class. Call Columbia 1280 and Columbia 5420-W, respectively, for games.

SAINTS PLAY BUSINESS TODAY

4 Other Prep School Games on Week's Schedule.

SWINGING into action a little earlier than its brother schools, the St. John's gridders will mix with the Business High School Eleven today on the Tidal Basin Field at 3 o'clock in a game that is added to an already heavy schedule for the cadet school. Eastern is on the program Friday.

Playing this game with the loss of several dependable players, due to injury, St. John's will be slightly handicapped against the Stenographers, but the way the remaining men on the squad have been working this handicap should be offset not a little. One thing to the advantage of the Cadets is their clever overhead game, used so effectively in past contests. If they can work this series of back to advantage against Business, then the Rhode Islanders are in for plenty of trouble.

Old Lady Hard Luck still seems to follow the Gonnaga School. It's last week by the illness of Coach Simmonds, who has now returned to harness, Capt. Brew is the latest victim to succumb to the sick list.

A recurrence of an old leg injury, sustained in the Eastern game, developed again in the Georgetown Prep tussle last week, and the injured member has become so aggravated that Brew will be forced out of the line-up Friday.

Of the other games Friday, St. Albans will hike to Baltimore to play the Boys Latin School, Georgetown Prep will engage the Alumni of the Prep School, and Emerson will encounter Alexandria High at Drednought Park.

Shenandoah Team of Dayton, Va., Saturday on the latter's field.

Northern A. C. Lists Drill Thursday Night

Believing that his team was overworked for the Maryland game, Coach Heard, of the Northerns, announces that one drill this week in preparation for the Best Pleasant game Sunday.

This practice is scheduled Thursday night on the Park View Playgrounds at 7 o'clock, and all players are requested to report.

FRIENDSHIPS DRILL.

In preparation for its game with the Mercury Preps Sunday the Friendship A. C. will practice tonight on the Virginia Avenue Playgrounds at 7 o'clock. All players are requested to report.

NOTICE, NORTHERN PREPS.

The Northern Preps will hold their first workout tomorrow night at Park View Playground at 7:30. Capt. Sorrell will ask the following players to be sure to report: Hill, Lowe, Perry, Moore, Reed, Scida, H. Reid, Larnade, Foster, H. Hancock, E. Hancock, Rieley and the rest of the squad. Capt. Sorrell would like to arrange games with the following teams: Kennedy, Senators, Northeast Columbians, Carlies.

G. W. FINDS SUCCESS UNDER COACH CRUM

college football teams, there has been no "cutting" of the George Washington squad. There have not been enough players available to stage even a scrimmage or a dummy scrimmage, forcing Crum to work without such aid though indispensable to the proper drilling of a team.

Against Penn State last Saturday, Coach Crum had fifteen players in uniform. Capt. Allhouse, star end, was missing owing to an injury. Assting Capt. Walker, star center and best lineman on the squad, also was unavailable as a result of a torn shoulder. Clapper, brilliant half back, was recovering from an appendicitis attack, and played only a short time.

Thirteen players were used by George Washington in the game. Coach Besdek, of Penn State, started a full reserve team, and the score during the first half was 0 to 0. Penn State's regulars went into the game in the second half and in the third quarter scored the 13 points which won the game. The Penn State regulars, who had beaten Pennsylvania and routed Lafayette, 40 to 0, scored only these 13 points against eleven tired George Washington players who had had no respite from the start of the season.

Coach Crum's arrival at George Washington in 1924 marked the gradual ascendancy of the Colonial team. In that year, George Washington held Johns Hopkins to a 3-0 tie with virtually the same team that had been beaten by Hopkins, 68 to 7, in 1923. Catholic University also felt the power of George Washington's attack in that season, and was included among its victims.

In 1925, George Washington, under Crum's tutelage, won eight games and lost two. In 1926, George Washington won nine games and lost two. Crum's record for this season is six games won and one lost.

Coach Crum came to George Washington after starring as a member of Cooper's great Princeton team of 1923, which defeated Chicago in that memorable 21-18 game and conquered Harvard, 10 to 3. Crum making the lone touchdown of the contest.

D. C. PRO FIVE DRILLS IN NEW YORK

Riconda Jumps Team, Says Rumor; Six Players Report.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The training season for the Washington Club of the American Basketball League officially got under way here tonight, when Manager Ray Kennedy and a squad of six players worked out for two hours in a local gymnasium. George P. Marshall, owner of the team, also was on hand, greeting the players as they reported to the Hotel Alhambra from their homes in various sections.

Those who answered roll call were: Russell Saunders, Trenton, N. J.; Harry Pessen, Philadelphia; Elmer Ripley, Staten Island, N. Y.; Jude Beaman, Portsmouth, Ohio; Guss Chismadia, Perth Amboy, N. J., and Austin Wales, Little, Pa. Five other players, who had been counted on to appear, failed to show up, despite orders from Marshall. They are Harry Riconda, Francis Meahan, Roger Cooney, Rob Grody and John Conaty.

Several practices aboard the warship Illinois, which is anchored in the Hudson River, are scheduled for the Capital City while here. Next Saturday night they will go to Washington to finish preparations for the opening of the season November 20 against Rochester.

Harry Riconda will not be a member of the Washington pro quint this year, according to advice reaching the local club's business office last night. It was reported Riconda, who claims he is a free agent, has signed with the Albany (N. Y.) team. As yesterday was the last day of grace allowed the delinquent players Meahan, Cooney, Grody and Conaty, who spurned the contracts offered them, it is presumed that they became automatically suspended according to Owner's Marshall's ultimatum issued a week ago.

STAR LOSSES TO HANDICAP BUSINESS

B. Jones and Others to Be Missing in Eastern Game.

BERNIE JONES, quarterback, will be missing in the Business High line-up Friday, when Business meets Tech at Central Stadium. A season of unfortunate injuries has prompted Jones to turn in his uniform and look forward to the approaching basketball season.

Jones has played in hardly a game this year without receiving an injury of some description. With Revelle Jones, J. Lewis, Charles May and Henry Galotta, in addition to other promising material available for the basketball season, Business looks forward to a championship basketball team, and Bernie Jones, who was a member of the team last year, wants to be on hand and fully able to play again this season.

B. Jones' resignation from the football team has necessitated shifting Charles May to quarter back. Rich and Durrey at half and Lewis at full back complete the back field.

His absence also breaks up a passing combination of the team. J. Lewis heretofore used to toss the oval to B. Jones and May used to throw passes to Revelle Jones, in both cases carrying on to the gridiron two combinations which used to function well on the basketball court.

The loss of Jones and of others by ineptly leaving Business in a sorry plight. Lester and Linwood Jones are the only available substitutes for the team. Despite this condition, the Business Squad shows an unusual amount of spirit in its daily workouts and Capt. Clapper, who got up from a sick bed to play on Saturday, went to his home after the game and probably will not be seen in action again until the Catholic University battle.

All-Army Team Plays West. Md. Saturday

An experienced All-Army football team, comprising the best talent in that branch of the service throughout the country, will meet the strong Western Maryland aggregation on Saturday in the Baltimore stadium.

Major A. J. Fleet, former football coach at Florida University, has developed a formidable, high-scoring machine which has run roughshod over its opponents in the majority of its games.

Mike Tocumatch, former West Point star, will direct the attack of the soldiers, who will present a powerful forward line, supporting a fast, driving back field. The line will average 191 pounds, while the back field will average 190 pounds.

Mrs. Haynes Low in Qualifying Round.

The prize for low score in the qualifying round of the Women's Club championship at the Congressional Country Club yesterday, was won by Mrs. J. M. Haynes, whose card for 18 holes totaled 66. Mrs. H. A. Knox was runner up with a score of 67.

The pairings for the first round of match play this morning are as follows: Mrs. William B. Corry vs. Mrs. H. A. Knox; Mrs. L. B. Hadrick vs. Mrs. J. M. Haynes; Mrs. M. B. Miller vs. Mrs. L. Lester Rose.

G. W. to Drill Today For St. Vincent Game.

After their creditable showing against the powerful Penn State football forces, which shattered their winning streak of five successive games, but nevertheless added to their growing prestige, the George Washington "iron men" yesterday enjoyed a respite from the regular daily practice.

The Colonial team, a decided favorite to defeat St. Vincent's at the Central Stadium in Saturday's local football attraction, will resume practice today at the Tidal Basin, with the Catholic University battle on Thanksgiving as its main objective.

Clapper, who got up from a sick bed to play on Saturday, went to his home after the game and probably will not be seen in action again until the Catholic University battle.

C. U. PREPPING FOR SAINT XAVIERS

Capt. Foley Expected Back for Game in Cincinnati.

FROM its rest over the weekend, as there was no prep scheduled, the Catholic University squad began earnest preparation for its battle with St. Xavier's at Cincinnati on Saturday.

Capt. Ray Foley, regular quarter back, who was injured in the Holy Cross fray, is expected to resume his place in the line-up against St. Xavier's, and Gene Murphy, who has been directing the team in Foley's absence, will be shifted to a half back position.

In the light of St. Xavier's 13 to 15 showing against the Quantic Marine team, who a week previously had routed the Brooklands by a 35 to 0 score, the Cardinals will be the "underdogs" in the game on Saturday.

Against the advantage St. Xavier's will hold both in weight and reserve material, Coach McCalliffe plans to develop a versatile passing attack centered around Foley.

In the scrimmages last week, the Cardinals showed an improvement in their first line of defense, which was surprisingly weak at times against the sweepers of the Marines.

Coach McCalliffe intimated yesterday that there would be some changes in the line-up, but he will wait the outcome of today's scrimmage before making his final decision.

COLLEGIAN BOWLERS AHEAD.

The Collegian bowlers defeated the Colonial pinners last night in the Convention Hall alleys. Don Gris bowled high game with a mark of 140. Branstetter and Gladden also bowled good games. Games are wanted by the Collegians. Call Don Gris at Lincoln 9618 after 7:30 o'clock.

ELUSIVE BURGLAR LOOTS HOME; HALTS PURSUER WITH GUN

J. Gardner Darby Threatened as He Chases Robber From Bedroom.

REAR ADMIRAL'S WIFE
FINDS NECKLACE GONE

Sacking of Schofield Residence Second Burglary
There in 3 Months.

The robber of the Northwest again made his appearance early yesterday morning in fashionable Cleveland Park and made his escape with $20 after threatening to shoot J. Gardner Darby, 3510 Macomb street northwest, in whose home he was discovered.

Awakened about 5 o'clock in the morning by the coughing of his young son, who was asleep in an adjoining room, Mr. Darby discerned a dark object moving about his room. As he snatched up the bedside lamp, the intruder ran from the room. Jumping from his bed, Mr. Darby gave chase. The robber, when half way down the stairs, turned and, switching a flashlight into Darby's eyes, commanded him to "stop or I'll shoot." The intruder then continued down the steps and escaped by the back door, by which he had entered.

Investigation revealed that the robber had made two visits to Mr. Darby's bedroom, taking the first time Mrs. Darby's pocketbook, laying on the dressing table, the contents of which were found pilloped on the staircase. The second time he went through Mr. Darby's pants pockets, and it was then he found the $20.

Neighbor Heard Intruder.
Miss Sophie B. Middleton, 3511 Lowell street northwest, whose rear yard abuts the Darby's rear yard, reported hearing some one in her yard about 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning. She stated the sound was like a dog barking. Although she could not discover any one when she went to the window, Miss Middleton was of the opinion the prowler was the same one who later entered the Darby home.

The robbery of the Darby residence comes on the heels of the ransacking early Sunday morning of Rear Admiral Frank H. Schofield's residence at 3235 Macomb street northwest. The fields were out of the city at the time, but returned yesterday morning. Mrs. Schofield, upon her return, made a check of the articles missing. Among them were an opal and diamond necklace and a French beaded bag. Mrs. Schofield stated that very little jewelry and money was in the house at the time of the robbery.

Second Schofield Burglary.
This is the second time in three months that the Schofield residence has been ransacked. Mrs. Schofield stated, On August 15, robbers escaped with clothing valued at $1,000 while Rear Admiral and Mrs. Schofield were out taking supper. The house was entered through a front window which had been left unlocked.

The robber Sunday entered the house by jimmieing the basement door. The kitchen door also showed signs that an unsuccessful attempt was made to burst it open.

The depredations of the robber of the Northwest section have resulted in placing of a special detail of eleven men, headed by Policeman Thomas Bragg, to investigate the robberies.

Robber Still At Large.

The police attribute the shooting and attempted robbery on last Friday of Commander Lucius W. Johnson, 3300 Thirtieth street northwest, to the robber of the Northwest. It is thought also that this same robber attempted to jimmie the rear door in the residence of Frank S. Gardner, 3805 Kanawha street northwest Sunday morning, but was frightened away when the lights were turned on. James Robert Lillard, 22 years old, giving his address as 1925 Kearney street northeast, was arrested in Rockville yesterday by Chief of Police Alvin Moxley, acting on instructions from Detectives O'Dea and Cullinane. Lillard was taken on a tour of the persons who have been robbed by the so-called bandit, but none of them could identify him, and late last night Inspector Frazer declared that the "robber is still at large."

Two Are Exonerated In Fatal Accidents

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Harry Berenter, 23 years old, 3909 Kansas avenue northwest, in the death of Mrs. Julia McKenna, 70 years old, 1129 Euclid street northwest. Mrs. McKenna was injured Thursday afternoon last week on Eleventh street above Euclid street. She died from a fractured skull.

A coroner's jury held the death Friday of William Bower, colored, 40 years old, 1326 Harrison avenue southeast, due to unintentional homicide. James E. Adams, colored, 333 Elm street northwest, who was held for the shooting of the man, was released.

Suit for Insurance Lost.

Miss Ludolph K. LaRue, stepdaughter of Frank B. Egan, who sued the Prudential Insurance Co. to recover $600 for his "death," lost her case yesterday in the Court of Appeals when that tribunal affirmed the judgment of the Municipal Court. This case has twice been to the Court of Appeals. It was sent back to the municipal court after its first appeal and when called for a second appeal appeared, although it had been supposed that he was dead because of an absence of more than seven years.

$7,500 Damage Suit Dismissed.

The $7,500 damage suit filed in Circuit Court by Calvin Hill, Virginia Williams, against M. E. Horton, Inc., 620 C street southwest, was dismissed by him yesterday through his counsel, W. B. Wright. In this case the plaintiff said he was injured when his automobile was collided with by a Horton truck at Ninth and B streets northwest on April 6.

G. B. FARQUHAR ELECTED TRADE BOARD DIRECTOR

60 Membership Applications
Approved—Group to Study
District Needs.

FRIDAY MEETING CALLED

George B. Farquhar, former chairman of the membership committee, was elected a director of the Washington Board of Trade, at a meeting of the board yesterday afternoon. He succeeds Dr. William Mather Lewis, former head of George Washington University, resigned. Sixty applications for membership were approved, which brings the membership to a total of 3,170, it was announced.

For the purpose of mapping out a practical program of legislation to be obtained at the coming session of Congress, in line with the estimated budget for the District for the next fiscal year, a special meeting of the officers, directors and committee chairmen has been called for Friday evening at the home of President Edwin C. Graham, 2921 Forty-fourth street, Wesley Heights, it was announced yesterday.

A list of all projects necessary to the development of the National Capital, and elimination of all plans which the official believe can not be obtained at this session of Congress will be made. It was explained. This will include a list of all legislation for which appropriations will be necessary and those proposals which require no appropriations.

The first list will be divided into two parts, one relating to the regular maintenance of the District government, and the other containing items for which appropriations will be needed. The estimated revenues of the National Capital will then be compiled for the next fiscal year, and against this sum will be balanced the total amount of expenditures which could be taken care of by these revenues. The contribution from the Federal government and the District income will be added together as estimated revenues. In this manner only the total amount of projects requiring special legislation would be shown, without the levy of additional taxes on local residents.

Other matters to come before the meeting include suffrage for the District, adjustment of the fiscal relations, and the proposed workmen's compensation plan along the lines of the Underhill bill. A meeting of the committee on law and legislation has been called for tonight at 8 o'clock for further consideration of a bill affecting condemnation of real estate. Announcement was also made that the board will distribute descriptive data about Washington to the Canadian soldiers coming here for Armistice Day.

The membership committee will hold a dinner meeting Saturday night at 6:15 o'clock at the Continental Hotel.

PADLOCK INJUNCTION SENTENCE SUSTAINED

Court Holds Harry Maynard
Must Serve Jail Term for Contempt.

Harry Maynard, who was the first individual to be named defendant in this jurisdiction in what is known as a "padlock injunction," must serve a sentence of one year in jail and pay a fine of $1,000 on a charge of violating such an injunction, according to a decision yesterday by the Court of Appeals.

In affirming the conviction on a charge of contempt, the Appellate Court said that persons accused of violating "padlock injunctions" are not entitled to jury trials under the antitrust laws because these laws have nothing to do with the prohibition laws, and that search warrants issued in liquor cases do not have to conform to the espionage act as this act has nothing to do with the prohibition laws.

Maynard was enjoined on February 25, 1926, from handling liquor. He was then operating the Maple Inn Cafeteria at 1416 K street northwest. He is no longer at that address. A year later he was charged with ignoring the order of the court forbidding him to sell liquor and was cited and tried on contempt charge and found guilty. He was first enjoined in January, 1922, when he operated a cafe on Fifteenth street northwest near the Treasury. He afterward moved his business across the street from the Veterans Bureau and was enjoined from handling liquor at that address. He moved from there to 1416 K and was enjoined there also. He is now doing business at some other address which does not appear on the record. Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Oron appeared for the government in the latest case against Maynard.

Bankruptcy Petitions Filed.

William L. Grimes, druggist, 2035 Rhode Island avenue northwest, and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Grimes, filed petitions in voluntary bankruptcy yesterday in bankruptcy court. Through Attorney Harry H. Hollander, the druggist listed his debts at $19,269 and his assets at $10,285. The debts of Mrs. Grimes were listed at $7,200 and the assets at $200.

Citizens Join Forces In Fight on Dumps

A vigorous campaign is being conducted by citizens' associations in the eastern part of the District to stop the burning of refuse on the dumps in the vicinity of Benning and the Congressional Cemetery. The civic bodies complain that the odor of smoke from the dumps is noticeable throughout the eastern section as far west as the Capitol and the District Commissioners will be asked to end the nuisance.

The Lincoln Park Citizens Association, sponsors of the drive against the dumps, will meet tomorrow night and steps will be taken to form a joint committee of the associations opposed to the dumps to complain to the city heads. The other associations cooperating are Trinidad, Southeast, Northeast, Northeast Business Men and the association in the vicinity of the Anacostia River.

PENNSYLVANIA ALUMNI FAVOR MOVING COLLEGE

Valley Forge Site Indorsed by Associated Societies Convened Here.

ADDRESS MADE BY WORK

The proposal to move the undergraduate departments of the University of Pennsylvania from West Philadelphia to Valley Forge was unanimously indorsed yesterday afternoon by the Associated Pennsylvania Clubs, composed of 86 Alumni societies, holding their annual conference at the University City. Plans for the move will be taken by the trustees of the school.

The University of Pennsylvania was established in 1740 by Benjamin Franklin. Originally located near Independence Hall in Philadelphia, it was moved to the western end of the city shortly after the Civil War. Gradually skyscrapers and railroad yards have been creeping nearer and nearer to the school, and it is now believed that the undergraduates would be better off at Valley Forge, about 20 miles away.

Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work, an alumnus of the University of Pennsylvania, opened the conference yesterday morning. Afterward he presented the delegates to President Coolidge at the White House. Last night the delegates attended a banquet at the Chevy Chase Club.

Secretary Work commended those universities which indicated their intention to abandon the first two years of the curriculum in liberal arts. This, he said, will enable the smaller colleges to have more remedial places in the general plan of education. After two years of grounding in the languages, mathematics and the sciences, he said, students will be prepared to enter the universities for intensive training along professional lines or for the discovery of new knowledge through research and investigation.

Two Men Arrested In Gambling Raid

Frank Pate, 30 years old, 812 E street northwest, and Clifford Voorhes, 28 years old, 815 I street northwest, were arrested and charged with setting up a gaming table in a raid yesterday afternoon upon the premises at 815 I street northwest.

Besides Pate and Voorhes, the names of twenty witnesses were taken. When the policemen conducting the raid burst through a 4-inch door there was a rush to get out. Many of those in the room attempted to get to freedom through a laundry next door, but the policemen had this blocked. The raiders were Sgt. O. J. Letterman, Sgt. James E. Kane, Sgt. Hughes, E. A. Mumper and Bicycle Officer P. K. Clarke.

Fur Bundle in Auto Deceives Detectives

When Detective Charles J. J. Weber, of Police Headquarters saw an automobile pass the District Building yesterday morning at about 50 miles an hour and got a glimpse of fur on the back seat, he thought he was on the trail of the fur thieves that have been molesting the city.

Jumping into the headquarters car Weber gave chase. He overtook the car at the George Washington hospital in time to see a man get out of the car with a "bundle of fur" in his arms. Mrs. J. L. Martin, of Virginia, said she had become seriously ill and the doctor had ordered her to the hospital with all dispatch. Her husband was carrying out orders.

HOOVER LOSES HOPE ON APARTMENT PLAN

Project to Build for U. S.
Clerks Broached by Philanthropist in 1926.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover announced yesterday that he had "given up hope" that the plans for building moderate-priced apartment houses here for Government employes ever would be realized.

In August, 1926, the Department of Commerce announced that some unidentified philanthropist proposed to build apartment houses here in which Government workers could get for a rental of $12.50 a month a room. The philanthropist, or organization behind the project, asked the Department of Commerce to send out questionnaires and determine whether the workers would be interested in such apartment houses. This was done, and the replies enthusiastically indorsed the project.

The Department of Commerce has not revealed the identity of the person, or persons, who suggested the plan. The impression always has been, however, that the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. was behind it.

ABUTMENT OF CHAIN BRIDGE'S REPORTED NEARING COLLAPSE

Engineers, Fear Breakdown
Before Replacements Can Be Effected.

VIRGINIA APPROACH
DISINTEGRATING FAST

8 Bids Received for Reconstruction of Main Job;
$36,120 Lowest.

Coincidental with the opening yesterday of sealed proposals for reconstruction of the Virginia abutment of Chain Bridge, a new report of the District bridge department was made public indicating a more hazardous condition of the abutment than ever. Persons familiar with the guarded language employed by engineers gathered that the technical men are concerned lest the bridge, which carries Arlington County (Va.) water mains, collapse before replacement can be brought under way.

The report said that observations taken October 20 revealed that the waters of the Potomac River at that point had risen 20 feet in 48 hours, and added:

"On November 2 no perceptible outward movement was apparent, but for the first time since 1920 an opening of three thirty-seconds of an inch was discovered in the vertical crack in the face of the abutment on the upstream end."

Crack Is Examined.
"Visual examination of this crack revealed the measurements, as it is very apparent that separation has occurred and that disintegration is proceeding at greater rate than heretofore noted."

The north wing wall shows new openings in the plans of foundation limits and general segregation is very apparent. The latest movement herein noted presents serious possibilities, as it indicates the unstable condition of the north wing, now separated from the abutment proper by two intersecting planes of rupture."

There were eight bidders for the work reconstruction. The lowest bid in the main job ranged from $36,000 to $69,000. The lowest bidder was the H. S. Haislett Construction Co., of this city, who offered to build the abutment for $36,120.

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, assistant to the Engineer, drew attention to the fact that three bids offered for an alternative method of repairing the south wing of the bridge were all higher than the lower bid for building a complete new abutment. Critics of the District Engineering Department at the time the bridge was closed to traffic said that the abutment could be repaired easily and inexpensively. Whitehurst, in writing the specifications, provided a clause under which contractors were invited to suggest and offer prices for any method of strengthening the structure.

Court Holds Filipino Not Citizen in Rule

Civilian Filipinos who have not served the required time in the naval or military forces of the United States are not entitled to citizenship papers, according to a decision yesterday by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

The act of the lower court in awarding final citizenship papers to Ambrose Javier, a Filipino cook of this city, was declared to be in excess of its powers and the case was sent back with instructions to cancel Javier's certificate. The certificate was issued by Justice Adolph A. Hoehling over objection by Jesse Thomas, a naturalization examiner of the Department of Labor, who contended that Javier did not owe permanent allegiance to the United States and that he had not served in the naval or military forces. The Department of Labor later appealed. The Appellate Court stated that the Supreme Court of the United States had already decided that Filipinos having the same status as Jav were not entitled to become American citizens.

New Trial Granted In Alienation Suit

Mrs. Eva C. Martin, of this city, who sued Mrs. Frances Coit, wealthy Wall Street financier, for damages for the alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, Merton G. Martin, a buyer in a Washington department store, is entitled to a new trial, according to a decision of the Court of Appeals yesterday.

The case ended in the lower court by a directed verdict for Mrs. Coit. She has the record of a California divorce court had been introduced by counsel for Mrs. Coit. The record showed that Martin had married the present Mrs. Martin before he had obtained a final decree of divorce against his first wife, Mrs. Eva C. Martin. The appellate court found that this record was improperly introduced in evidence, and because of that fact the alienation suit may be tried over again.

Wife Has Mate Held On Bigamy Charge

Charged with bigamy, Earl H. Scott, 30 years old, who gave his address as 228 Twelfth street northwest, was in jail at Rockville, yesterday in default of $2,500 bail. He will be given a hearing before the Montgomery County grand jury Monday when it convenes.

On Saturday his wife, the former Miss Frances Van Leer, 22 years old, of Staunton, Va., swore out a warrant for his arrest. She declared, and the record reflected, that they were married last September 3 in Rockville, by the Rev. Bertram M. Osgood, of the Rockville Baptist Church. Mrs. Scott complained that her husband was married and undivorced when the ceremony was performed. She stated his first wife was the former Miss Anna E. Estlin, of Pontiac, Mich. Scott was arrested on Sunday.

Draft for $52,659 Lost With Package

Robert Speich, of the Mount Vernon Savings Bank, Ninth and Mount Vernon place northwest, yesterday lost a package containing a nonnegotiable draft drawn payable to cash on the Commercial National Bank of this city for $52,659.30.

The police were notified that the package was lost in front of the Mount Vernon Savings Bank and that a woman was seen to pick it up. A deed signed by J. E. Giles, of Martinsburg, W. Va., was also lost with the package. The papers are without value to the finder.
